

DEAD BODY IS FOUND IN ROOM

Robert McMurray Former Newspaper Man in This City Dies in Indianapolis.

LANDLADY MAKES DISCOVERY

He Complained of Pains Yesterday Morning, But Refused to Call a Physician.

Robert McMurray, for many years a newspaper man in Indianapolis, was found dead in his room at 305 North Illinois street, yesterday, says the Indianapolis Star. McMurray for several months was city editor of the Democrat in Rushville. Friends believe he suffered a stroke of paralysis but Coroner Blackwell has not determined the cause of death and may hold an autopsy.

Mrs. Julia Brooks, in whose boarding house he had roomed for six months, was probably the last person to see him alive. She talked to him about 9 o'clock yesterday morning, when he complained of severe pains and asked for something to eat.

She wanted to call a physician, but McMurray said he was not seriously ill and thought he would feel all right after breakfast. Mrs. Brooks told him he had not been taking good care of himself during the past few weeks and he said he realized the fact and promised to watch his health closer in the future.

After preparing breakfast for him, Mrs. Brooks went down town and told others in the house to watch him. They possibly forgot the instructions and Mrs. Brooks found him dead yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock. His body was lying in front of a dresser and the partially eaten breakfast was on the table.

McMurray entered the newspaper field when a boy and served as police reporter on the Indianapolis Sentinel for a number of years. He was also employed as a reporter and later as copy reader on several other papers. He is survived by a married sister, Mrs. Clarence Plumb, who lives in Chicago and was notified.

SUNDAY SCHOOL
TO HAVE BIG DAY

Special Program Arranged For Rally Day Service at St. Paul's M. E. Church.

MUSIC WILL BE A FEATURE

The Sunday school at St. Paul's M. E. church is arranging for a great day Sunday. It is rally day and that means a lot at St. Paul's M. E. church. Superintendent E. B. Thomas is expecting a record breaking attendance at the session Sunday morning. A special program has been prepared and music will be a feature of this special service.

MEETING TO BE HERE.

Western Horseman: It is probable that a breeders' meeting will be held at Rushville, Ind., sometime during October.

THE WEATHER

Fair tonight. Probably light frost in north and central portion. Saturday fair.

DIVORCE FOR MRS. CROSS

Court Grants Decree to Prominent Woman After Short Trial.

Mrs. Patia Cross was granted a divorce by William M. Sparks yesterday. Mrs. Cross filed suit for divorce from her husband, J. F. Cross, some time ago and the suit at the time caused considerable comment as the attorneys, Megee & Kiplinger, refused to discuss the contents of the complaint. It is understood, however, that no sensational charges were made. Mr. Cross is one of the wealthy men of the county.

SPECIAL SERVICE FOR NEXT SUNDAY

"Members' Day" Will be Appropriately Celebrated at the Main St. Christian Church.

RALLY DAY IN SUNDAY SCHOOL

Next Sunday will be a great day at the Main Street Christian Church. It will be the annual celebration of "Members' Day," a special occasion when members and friends gather together for a new emphasis of their obligations to the cause of Christ and re-consecration to personal living for the Christ ideal. It is a day of mountain top vision, looking forward to past accomplishments and new victories in the future. All the members and friends are expected to be in attendance and large audiences and enthusiasm will be the order of the day.

Rev. R. W. Abberley has announced that he will preach in the morning on "The Christian Needed by These Times," and in the evening on "The New Testament Church, Its Foundation in Christ." There will be good music and splendid fellowship.

At the Sunday school hour a very fine program has been prepared and the workers are planning for at least five hundred to be present. The Sunday school will celebrate "Declaration Day," and the rally will be one no one can afford to miss. Special orchestra music and vocal numbers will be rendered and big things will be doing in all the classes. A great day is promised for this church and Bible school next Sunday, and the members will be present to show their loyalty.

TO HAVE LITERARY PROGRAM

Epworth League of the Second M. E. Church Special Service.

The literary department of the Epworth League of the Second M. E. church will render the following program at their meeting this evening: Song—League. Scripture Reading—Gerard Easley. Prayer. Opening Address—William Frazier. Recitation—Willis Ramson. Solo—Phonia Ferguson. Recitation—Mrs. James Williams. Recitation—Wilbur Taylor. Solo—Dorothy Williams. Closing Song—League.

Mrs. Henry Bundrant is president and Miss Cora Smith is secretary.

Rushville Will!

MERCHANTS ARE WELL SUPPLIED

Have Best Stock of Winter Goods They Have Carried in Years Before.

CITY TO BE CONGRATULATED

Farmers Find it Saves Them Money to Drive Miles to Come to Rushville.

Never before in the history of the city have Rushville merchants had as complete line of goods for the fall trade. All of them are heavily stocked and prepared for a heavy trade. The early buying this fall has been unusually brisk owing to the early cold spell but at that the big buying days are to come.

In practically every line of business Rushville merchants have a better line of goods than ever before. The clothing merchants have a line of patterns which are hard to beat; the shoe dealers have a stock which should please the most particular customer. The dry goods stores, milliners, and in fact every line of business which has to buy for the winter and fall trade is well prepared.

Rushville is to be congratulated on the class of merchants she has. As a rule they keep a much better line of goods than is found in cities twice the size of Rushville and the beauty about it is that they have found that it pays to be real live up-to-date business men. The impression the stranger gets of a city is frequently based on the class of merchants here who might have taken better care of their windows and made their stores more attractive, but that day is past. Rushville merchants have awakened to the fact that Rushville buyers are good judges of quality and style and are carrying stuff which is usually not found in the smaller cities.

A Rushville man went to Indianapolis the other day to buy a suit of clothes. It was not a malicious thoughtlessness which sent him to the city to buy instead of buying at home. He "had heard" that he could get much better stuff and get it cheaper than at home. He came back but he wasn't carrying any bundles. The next day he went the rounds of the clothing stores, and he said he was surprised at the difference in the price he found. He said some of the Rushville merchants had an assortment which was as stylish and as large as the stores he visited in Indianapolis. But when it came to the price he said the Indianapolis merchants were much above the merchants here. And that is true not only in the clothing business—it is true in every line of business.

It is useless to consider reasons for not going to other cities to buy—there is absolutely no good reason why you should buy anywhere else. Farmers who live five miles closer to surrounding cities will find it to their advantage to patronize Rushville merchants. Possibly they say they have not found it so in the past, and possibly they are right. But the chances are they have not investigated in the last few years. There is no city which can supply and please the country trade as well as Rushville merchants can. Ask the farmers who have been coming here and hear what they say.

If you have been going to some other city to do your buying, come here once, even if it is a little farther. You will find that you will be well paid for the extra miles you drive. In fact, the chances are the prices you will get would be a violation of

CROWD HEARS
SCIENCE TALK

W. D. McCrackan Says This Religion is One of Progress and Scientific Advancement.

MENTIONS HEALING OF SICK

Says Mrs. Eddy's Cult is Practically Return to Method Used by Christ and Disciples.

Pleasing, instructive and logical was the talk of William D. McCrackan, who lectured at the Kramer coliseum last night under the auspices of the First church of Christ, Scientist. He went into the subject of Christian Science at some length and attempted to correct some mis-statements which have been made about this religion. A large crowd listened intently to his talk.

B. F. Miller in introducing the speaker said:

"Ladies and Gentlemen: On behalf of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Rushville I greet you as friends, neighbors and as those who love the good and the beautiful in all religions.

"If my friend belongs to the Methodist church and sincerely believes in the doctrines of that church, I respect him; if he belongs to the Presbyterian church and sincerely believes in the doctrines of that church, I respect him, and if he belongs to the Christian Science church or any other church and sincerely believes in the teachings of such church, I likewise respect him, and, in truth, I hope that I may be good enough and broad enough to respect any man in his religious belief, if, in his heart, he feels that such belief brings him nearer the feet of Jesus Christ.

"These different religious beliefs are of great interest to our citizens and I believe that public discussion of them can only result in good and it is with pleasure that I now introduce to you the Honorable William D. McCrackan, member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston Massachusetts."

"The message of Christian Science is simple and straightforward and responds to a universal need," said Mr. McCrackan in beginning his speech. "It is not easily treated as an academic theme nor is it, strictly speaking, a debatable question, because it provides the proofs of its own correctness day by day and hour by hour, and these proofs are final and convincing. Christian Science does more than preach, it fulfills. While it arouses the noblest aspiration and expectations of mankind, it also justifies its teachings by definite results. Like the good Samaritan it comes to those who have fallen among thieves, whom false concepts have robbed of health and happiness, whom material methods have passed by on the other side, and pours into their wounds the oil and wine and gladness of inspiration, takes them to the inn of shelter and leaves with them the coin of priceless value which will insure their complete recovery, and in time their complete salvation."

He said that the Christian Science religion was in accord with the present day demand for proofs, and practical things and that this religion was one of progress. He said it did not demand a new Bible nor a different Christ, but recognized that there was but one Christ and one Bible. Christian Science is progressive, he said, because it throws the light of science upon nature and attributes of Deity. It means the application of science to subjects which popular thought has in times past been taught to regard as shadowy and visionary Hedgewood Boy ate the dust of the Eel, the Canadian stallion, in the free-for-all pace at Columbus, Ohio, yesterday in all three heats. The race was uninteresting, Wilson winning second money.

WOMEN CROWDING
MILLINERY STORES

Beautiful Displays Are Attracting Many Visitors Even From the Surrounding Cities.

HATS LARGE AND BEAUTIFUL

The women are swarming in the millinery shops today and those who could not come yesterday and could not arrange to get here today have made definite plans for coming tomorrow. And they feel well repaid for every extra step they have taken to see the new hats. The local millinery stores have an excellent display of fall creations and they are so attractive that there have been many here from surrounding cities. Several interurban conductors and railroad conductors have been stumbling over big hat boxes, too.

Milady's hat this season is a dream. It is large to the extreme, but it is a desorative object. Fur occupies a prominent place on fall millinery and beaver is much in evidence. Ostrich plumes are used in profusion in fact they were never more used than this season. Gray and wisteria are the popular colors and are considered especially good, though all kinds of colors are popular and there are enough to suit the fancy of the most exacting.

MUST KEEP THE NAMES SECRET

Identity of Factory Men Kept Quiet For Good Reasons by Y. M. C. C.

BOTH SIDES OF PROPOSITION

There is one feature which is not yet entirely clear in the minds of some people, regarding the Y. M. C. C. movement. This is the withholding from publication of the factories that have been contracted for.

Members of the committee of the Y. M. C. C. that are looking after these matters know these facts. They say they are well pleased with the class of industries which Mr. Ogan and Col. Woods have arranged to bring here. There are two principal reasons why the names of such factories can not be published and why no mention is even made at this stage of the names of the factory people who come here. In the first place such manufacturers do not want it known at this period that they expect to move their plants here, as it would be temporarily detrimental to the interests of their business in the places where they are now located and would subject them to considerable annoyances. In the next place if such matters were published, the commercial clubs of some other towns and cities would get busy "knocking" on Rushville.

W. H. Ogan returned to Rushville yesterday after a trip of investigation for the Y. M. C. C. He was investigating certain factories with which arrangements have been made.

WHO WILL GET
BAG OF MONEY?

That Old Story of Zachariah Hodge's Buried Treasure is Topic of Conversation.

IS PROBABLY ON POSEY LAND

Made Fortune as a Ship Carpenter, But None of it Was Found at His Death.

As several old residents of Rushville today commended the "splendid lay" of the new People's or factory addition, the wonder was expressed by one or two as to who would get the lot which contained Zachariah Hodge's money.

John F. Moses, Charles Worthington and Jefferson Carr all said at the Y. M. C. C. headquarters that they remembered the conviction which existed in the minds of the people of Rushville some years ago that Zachariah Hodge had buried considerable money on the tract. He lived as a bachelor in a small house, near the present Posey residence, which goes with the lot sale.

After Mr. Hodge's death relatives came to Rushville from an Eastern State. Although they declared that Mr. Hodge had accumulated considerable money as a ship carpenter, and although he was known to be economical in his habits, no trace of what he ever did with his money could be found. Rushville had no banks in those days of the early 40's and the burying of money to safeguard it was not an uncommon practice.

The ground was dug up in several places then in an effort to find the money buried by Mr. Hodge, but it was never found. It shows evidence of the digging to this day.

Mr. Carr was seventy-six years of age yesterday. He said at Y. M. C. C. headquarters that he remembered the general conviction which existed when he was a boy as to Mr. Hodge having buried considerable money on the tract. Hodge's branch which runs through the tract was named for Zachariah Hodge. Now the guess is who will get the lot on which Mr. Hodge's money was buried.

Sunday School Lesson
Christian Endeavor

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson I.—Fourth Quarter, For Oct. 3, 1909.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xxi, 27-39. Memory Verse, 39—Golden Text, II Tim. ii, 3—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Our last lesson in the Acts left Paul and his companions at Jerusalem, whither they had just returned from Paul's third missionary journey, and there we resume the story and imagine ourselves present at the service, when, in the presence of James and the elders, Paul declared particularly what things God had wrought among the gentiles by His ministry, and with them we would glorify the Lord (verses 19, 20). Right here comes in our perplexity concerning the advice from the church to Paul that for peace sake he should conform to certain things which were not essential, but which were made much of by the Jews at Jerusalem who believed—the thousands of Jews who believed, but yet continued zealous of the law. That Paul should consent to this suggestion seems somewhat like doing what he condemned Peter for doing in Gal. ii, 11-14. There is always trouble when we depart from the simplicity that is in Christ (II Cor. xi, 3) and seek to keep peace with legal Christians by conforming to their ways instead of standing fast in the liberty wherewith Christ has made us free (Gal. v, 1). Well, the plan did not work, for the Jews which were of Asia succeeded in exciting the city against Paul, and he would have been killed had not the chief captain with centurions and soldiers rescued him from the mob who were beating him to death.

In Paul's defense, as recorded in the next chapter, he acknowledged that the Lord had said to him some time after his conversion, "Make haste and get thee quickly out of Jerusalem, for they will not receive thy testimony concerning me; depart, for I will send thee far hence unto the gentiles" (xxii, 18, 21). This, with chapter xxi, 4, and the events which followed Paul's return to Jerusalem at this time, causes me to think that perhaps there was something of Paul in all this and that his years of imprisonment might have been avoided. No one is qualified to throw any stones at him, for who is there that has not been at some time or other very set in his own way because he thought it was the Lord's way, notwithstanding the opinion and the advice of his most intimate fellow believers? Then see how the Lord overruled it all to give us His most helpful epistles from prison, in some of which we can almost hear the clanking of his chains, as some one has said. See Eph. iv, 1; Col. iv, 18.

But, to return to our story and to pursue it, Paul must have been strongly reminded of his own zeal against "the way" in past years as he heard the mob cry, "Away with him!" and a little later, "Away with such a fellow from the earth, for it is not fit that he should live" (xxi, 36; xxii, 22). The people were so violent that not only had the soldiers to rescue him from them, but they actually had to carry him. Asking permission to speak as he was about to be led into the castle, the chief captain was surprised that his prisoner could speak Greek, and then Paul had a new occasion to understand what it meant to be falsely accused and numbered with transgressors, for the captain asked him if he was not an Egyptian who had made an uproar and had led 4,000 murderers into the wilderness (verse 38). Paul acknowledged himself a blasphemer and a persecutor (I Tim. i, 13), but to be reckoned a captain of 4,000 murderers was a pretty heavy accusation. As followers of Christ we must be content for His sake to have laid to our charge things we know not (Ps. xxxv, 11). Paul's testimony for himself was that he was a Jew of Tarsus, a citizen of no mean city. In xxii, 25, and back in xvi, 37, he pleads that he is a Roman citizen, a citizenship not purchased with money, but his by birth. Because of a great price, even the precious blood of Christ, paid for our redemption, all who receive Him are thus born from above and become citizens of that holy city the new Jerusalem (John i, 12, 13; Phil. iii, 20). Being citizens of such a city, how glad we should be to bear anything for His sake who at such infinite cost has made us such, and how eager we should be to have others enrolled as such citizens, for any one from any part of the wide world may have the privilege.

Paul addressed the multitude in Hebrew, and when they heard him speak in that language they kept the more silence. He rehearsed the story of his birth and education and his zeal toward God such as they were that day manifesting. Then he told how Jesus of Nazareth, risen from the dead and ascended to heaven, had appeared to him on the way to Damascus and convinced him that He was Israel's Messiah and the Saviour of all men and that he was to bear the good news to all men of forgiveness of sins through His name. When they heard of his being sent to the gentiles they as Jews had no use for such a man, cast off their clothes, threw dust into the air and made such an uproar that the chief captain was only prevented from scourging him that he might find out what he had been talking about (for he had been speaking in Hebrew) by Paul's question, "Is it lawful for you to scourge a man that is a Roman and uncondemned?" (xxii, 2.)

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 3, 1909.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic—Life lessons for me from the book of Ephesians.—Eph. iv, 1-6, 25-32.

Inasmuch as the title of this book is not found in some manuscripts and further that it contains no personal salutations, Ephesians is thought by some to have been a circular letter, sent first to Ephesus and then to be read in other churches of Asia Minor. This was not uncommon with the Apostle Paul. In Col. iv, 16, he instructs the Colossians after reading their letter to send it to Laodicea and also for them to read his letter to the Laodiceans. But while we may not hold this opinion we can see from the character of the Epistle that it was well adapted for such a purpose.

Ephesians was not written because of any peculiar difficulties in the church at Ephesus. It is a strong, stimulating letter to gentle Christians encouraging them to "walk worthy of their high calling" in spite of the many temptations to lapse into paganism. For those at Ephesus it was a difficult matter to live a sincere Christian life. Ephesus was the great port of Asia Minor. Its people were rich and licentious and fanatical. There was the statue of the goddess Diana, and their religious fanaticism was seen when in a demonstration against Paul thousands cried out for hours, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians!" But the Ephesians must have been faithful, even amid such unfavorable surroundings, for Paul has no word of censure or condemnation for them as for the Corinthians. They should thus teach us a great lesson. The world's allurements are many, but it "is not a means of grace to help us on to God." Like the Ephesians, we should stand fast. Instead of conforming to this world we should "walk worthy of the high calling of God."

Ephesians naturally falls into two divisions, of three chapters each: I. Doctrinal. II. Practical. In the doctrinal part Paul exalts the glorious inheritance to which the Ephesians were made heirs by the death and resurrection and exaltation of Christ; he contrasts their condition as Christians with that of their former condition as pagans, and speaks of the mystery which made it possible for them to become Christians, praying, after the manner of the Lord's Prayer, that they may enjoy the highest spiritual privileges. In the practical part he exhorts them to unity, warns them against certain immoralities, urges them in all the relations of life to consecrate themselves to God, and that they may withstand the wiles of the devil, to put on the whole armor of God. The study of this book cannot but result in a spiritual uplift to every Christian Endeavor.

BIBLE READINGS.

WHEAT SHORTS TAKEN UNAWARE

They Did Not Know of this Practical "Corner."

PITIFUL SCENES IN THE PIT

Efforts of Many "Short" Traders to Extricate Themselves From the Unlooked-For "Squeeze" in September Wheat Is Described by Onlookers as Nothing Short of Pitiful—The Quiet "Corner" Is Ascribed to an Eastern Man Who Was Taking Revenge For Past Losses.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Lacking none of the features of former years when "Old Hutch," Cudahy, Partridge and others were wont to explode bombshells under the trade, a wheat "squeeze" yesterday disturbed the ennu of speculative routine with a 14-cent advance in the September option on the board of trade here.

It was the cleanest cut of any corner in many years. The so-called Pat-ten deal of last spring was an open secret long before final delivery day, but what happened yesterday came out of a clear sky. September wheat had been lagging toward the end with every evidence of ebbing vitality. For a month there had been practically nothing doing in the option. An occasional ignored bid at or slightly above the market price infrequently developed traces of nervousness in the tone, but the general tranquility was undisturbed. September closed Wednesday at $1.06 and sluggishly slept through most of yesterday's session slightly above that figure. In a vague sort of way there was known to be a short interest out, but that some particular individual or clique had secured control of the long side was undreamed of by all not in the deal.

The trader or traders in control are said to have held about 1,000,000 bushels, while the scattered short interest ran between five and ten millions, according to the average expert guess on the subject in the absence of actual figures. In volume this does not begin to compare with some deals which board of trade history reveals, but in compact efficiency it is said to be the peer of any. No colossal winnings or losses are involved, although some of the weaker shorts were hard hit when "shoe-string" resources are considered. The efforts of some of these to extricate themselves during the last frenzied half hour were described by a spectator as pitiful. A small sum multiplied into comparatively heavy losses with distressing rapidity.

September was $1.07 when the riot of the shorts began. Conditions had been bearish, and although September had held steadily in price, shorts still believed the break would come. Receipts in the northwest continued heavy and Europe refused to buy, a situation usually followed by lower prices. As the final moment of the trading month drew near and the break did not materialize the true condition of affairs became apparent.

One long with 5,000 bushels to his credit snatched his profit at $1.10 and then watched what became of his sale. In the next thirty minutes it changed hands twenty-eight times on an advancing scale. The last man who secured it paid $1.20 for it. Before it rested in his hands brokerage commissions alone on the various transfers aggregated $350.

One of the most influential traders on the board waited until the top had been reached and then delivered the actual wheat at $1.20—100,000 bushels of it. Little wheat came out until $1.18 was reached. At this figure and above a neat profit was garnered, deliveries amounting to 165,000 bushels going to scattered interests. It was necessary to extend the delivery period three times before the last account was squared. The hour for delivery of actual wheat is from 1:30 to 2 p. m. It was 3:45 before the last transfer had been made.

While several firms are reported to have profited by the deal, common report credited control of September to an eastern man. This trader is said to have bought around a dollar and to have recouped nicely money lost two years ago in an attempted "squeeze" which failed. He is likewise said to have been the man who made July shorts come to his terms at New York last summer. In some quarters it is insisted that the deal which ended yesterday was manipulated by Chicago interests. Confirmation of either story is not obtainable.

His Accounts Were Short.
Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 1.—Dr. Alfred M. Webster, secretary of the New Era Association, a life insurance organization, shot and killed himself in the offices of the association following the revelation of a shortage in his accounts. State Insurance Examiner Englehart has made an unofficial statement estimating the shortage at $14,594.

Fatal Quarrel at Terre Haute.
Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 1.—During a street quarrel last night Heinrich Bolts shot and instantly killed Walter Huffman. Five bullets struck Huffman. Bolts surrendered to the police. Both men were glass-blowers.

Call For Republican City Convention.

The Republican voters of the city of Rushville are hereby called to meet at the court house on the 8th day of October, 1909, at 7:30 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of nominating one councilman for each ward and to select delegates for the city convention.

The wards will assemble at places designated as follows, viz.:

First ward in the county superintendent's office. Number of delegates to be selected, 24.

Second ward, in the county sheriff's office. Number of delegates to be selected, 18.

Third ward, in the assembly room. Number of delegates to be selected, 31.

Total number of delegates, 73. Alternates to be selected for each delegate.

By these presence the county convention is called to convene in the assembly room in the court house Tuesday evening, October 12th, 1909, at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of nominating candidates for Mayor, City Clerk, City Treasurer and two Councilmen-at-Large.

Said nominees to be voted for at the city election to be held Tuesday, the 2d day of November, 1909.

By orders of Republican City Central Committee.

E. W. BALL, Chairman.

BERT MULLIN, Secretary.

The story is told that the people of Anderson were brought to organize the movement which resulted in the location of several important factories and has made it an active city industrially recently from a song sung at one of the shows about two years ago upon "Anderson, the old show town." The song spoke of the chief activity being at the traction station, where the people watched the trains come in. The business men and citizens generally have made Anderson a busy city.

AMUSEMENTS

"Deserter For Love" is the title of the film to be seen at the Palace tonight. It depicts a story teeming with thrilling human interest with many startling climaxes. Mrs. Iva Brown will sing a new illustrated song.

The Star-Grand offers a strong drama tonight entitled "The Blight of Sin." The management guarantees this picture to give general satisfaction. Illustrated song, "Make a Noise Like a Hoop and Roll Away."

It is a fact now generally known that Miss Helen Pullman, who will be seen at Connersville as Claudia in "The Prince Chap," at the Auditorium tomorrow night, is accounted the most accomplished child actress on the stage today. She plays with a naturalness, a grace and intelligence that might be well copied by some of her elders who aspire to more pretentious parts. She is remarkably beautiful as well as a talented child and her future contains a large amount of success for her.

She has supported Ethel Barrymore in "A Doll House, has played Bessie in "Cape Cod Folks," and Egil in "The Viking of Heligoland." In the role of Claudia in the first act of "The Prince Chap" she has achieved her greatest distinction.

Mrs. Emily Coleman went to Indianapolis this morning to make a week-end visit with her daughter, Mrs. T. J. Williamson and family.

Mrs. O. P. Dillon has returned from a two months' stay at Porch Lake, Michigan.

Business and Factories

A considerable population added from the location of factories will increase the demand from the standpoint of business. Factory employees will buy what they need here in Rushville, not in Indianapolis or Cincinnati and not of mail order houses.

The vastly increased population of the country has demanded many things in agricultural products which were formerly not had. A product not known now, becomes a luxury next year and a necessity year after next. The wants of mankind have multiplied enormously. A high standard of living and a more strenuous life have succeeded the "simple life" of the early settlers. These diversified wants must be supplied. Many of the manufacturing institutions of the Atlantic coast States have been moving much farther westward so as to be nearer their natural markets and the raw material needed and nearer the center of population. A few years ago agriculture was far in advance of all other industries in its importance in the State of Indiana, for instance. The discovery of natural gas in great quantity and the opening up of a large coal field which geologists say has yet hardly been touched, brought from the eastern States a vast number of manufactures. The most wonderful system of traction lines in the world followed a splendid net-work of steam railroads. Better markets and communication facilities were afforded. Telephone lines were built, until soon there was one telephone to each twelve inhabitants. Rural mail delivery overspread the State. Farm life was not half so isolated as formerly. The rush of farm boys and girls to the city to escape the monot ony of farm life received a great check.

Prices of lands advanced enormously. Suburban life was found to possess great advantages over that of crowded flats. The people could breathe better surrounded by sunlight, fresh air, gardens and flowers. Those who had to spend their business hours in the city found they could escape smoke, dust and noise by living out upon an interurban railway. From that of centralization the process of decentralization began.

A "taste" for manufacturing sprang up among the people. Openings for successful business in manufacturing began to be studied. The poor inventor discarded his patched trousers and bought a new pair. With the advent of manufacturing, the inventor was counted somebody and not always a crank. The promoter appeared as the inventor's champion and "boosted" and a new line of labor was found in the factory locator's work. The writer upon politics ceased to be the "whole thing" in the newspaper ranks. An opening appeared for the person who gave an intelligent study to industrial conditions and could successfully prepare a special edition, a prospectus, or a catalogue. The stock of salesmen, unknown a few years previously, appeared, and the corporation attorney became respectable. Many mines were opened. Better laws were enacted for the well-being of the investor, the business man and the wage earner. Sanitary conditions were studied and improved in work shops, mines and schools. Manufacturers found that it was an enlightened policy to safeguard the well-being of their employees and their families and that thereby they secured a better product.

Draperies Distinctive Note of Present Styles

It is quite apparent that draperies of all kinds—tunics, panniers, overskirts and fichus—are the distinctive note of the present styles, says Mrs. Clara E. Simecox in the Delineator for October. The tunics, which are many and various, are reserved mostly for visiting gowns and housedresses. In some instances the effect of a tunic is achieved by a combination of two materials, net and silk, for example, or cashmere and silk, when in reality the skirt is cut in one and the drapery is a mere optical delusion. The most popular tunic is the one that is draped rather low, leaving the hips free. A good many short panniers are being shown—gay plaid silks and cameo checks caught into the belt at the center of the front and back and stopping just below the hips on the sides. But only a very slight woman can safely venture on a drapery of this kind, so they have proved by no means popular.

A far more plausible version of the pannier reaches almost to the hem of the skirt at the sides. It is generally made of straight widths of the material festooned carelessly over the skirt—caught into the belt at one place, knotted at another, or fastened by a bow, a button or a rosette at some crucial point just as it seemed about to wander off aimlessly into some new kind of a train or steamer.

A great many borders or "selvages" as the French call them, are used for these draperies—the straight edge of the material lending itself admirably to the hoop-like drapery of the overskirt. I saw a number of them in which the sides of the tunic were held together with macarons of braid or cord, or with straps of the materials fantastically embroidered in the cashmere colors of the dress.

Improves Quince Trees

A secret not known by everybody has been found out by J. Lorraine Wright of Decatur county. It is a general complaint that quince trees are barren. The remedy is easy. Horticulturists have decided that the quince tree must be fed with an unusual supply of iron food. If that is not in the soil, it can be supplied in different ways, and among the practical devices are to hang old chains in the tree, but better still, drive a few iron nails into the trunk of the trees.

John Wright, who by the way is a practical chemist, tried all methods, by using nails and putting wires in his trees, and proves the theory by gathering more than two bushels of fine quinces off of a neglected bush.

The mayor of Baltimore says that one good light is worth a dozen policemen.

PAID TRIBUTE TO RUSHVILLE

Speakers at Moose Meeting in Court House Last Night Praised the City.

A FAIR CROWD IN ATTENDANCE

Indianapolis Delegation Met at the Station by Band and Reception Committee.

The Moose good fellowship meeting held in the court house assembly room last night was attended by a fair crowd and a royal time was enjoyed by all. The speeches were very enjoyable and the occasion was not marred with the exception of the fact that the crowd was smaller than was anticipated. Several other attractions in the city last night tended to draw people away from their meeting.

The delegation from Indianapolis was met at the I. & C. traction station with the local band and a reception committee. Carriages were furnished to haul the visitors and the committee for a short parade over the down-town streets, after which they repaired to the court house for their gathering.

The speakers were all very profuse in the use of their adjectives when it came to paying a compliment to the hustling and bustling ways of Rushville. Mr. Harrison of Indianapolis especially paid a very fitting tribute to the Y. M. C. C. and said that he could see nothing in their methods that would not bring good for the city.

Mayor Cowing made the address of welcome, Lieut. Gov. Hall not being able to be present because he was called out of the city on business.

Abe Martin Says

Abe Martin says today: "Dr. Mopps returned from a few days' outin' yisterday an' found his patients all well an' happy. There hain't much 'change' in men's clothes this fall."

Frost Drying Out Corn

The recent frosts have made a decided change in the corn. The blades and even the stalks are drying out in the best possible manner and while the husking season is still distant farmers are beginning to figure on its arrival. If the weather remains favorable husking will begin rather early this year, perhaps as soon as the middle of October.

Over the county probably three-fourths of the wheat is probably sown. As the farmers have been among their corn more during the seeding season they can now give better estimates of the crop than before. Several observant men, who had inspected the crop with care, were asked as to the probable yield. They state that they believe the average for the whole country will be no less than fifty bushels per acre. This is decidedly larger than usual, and the quality bds fair to be excellent. The shortage in the wheat crop will be overcome by the unusual yield if prices are only fair. While the corn is thicker, this season, than usual, owing to the favorable weather which followed planting time, and which brought up a stalk from nearly every grain that was sown, there are fewer little ears than might be expected. On the whole, the prospects are splendid for an early and a very fine yield of the noble grain.

The Eskimos have no physicians; indeed, have no name for drugs or doctors. Nature here acts the good sanitarian and shuts the door against all disease germs and blends in their food iodine, the most powerful and least harmful of all antiseptic. The use of remedies either inside or out is unknown. Wounds heal up at once without mattering. All tumors, warts and cancers are unknown.

Deaths from hydrophobia in Europe average only a small fraction over one a year.

RUNAWAY VICTIM STILL SUFFERING

J. Morgan White May be Left With a Stiff Ankle From the Accident.

WIFE ALWAYS AT HIS BEDSIDE

J. Morgan White of Bridgeport, Ind., who was the victim of a runaway, north of this city Wednesday evening, is still in much pain at his room in the Grand hotel. Two bones near his ankle were broken in his left leg and also his ankle joint was dislocated. There is much danger of him going the rest of the way through life with a stiff ankle as the fractures are of a very serious nature. His pain was very severe yet today, and the physicians found it necessary to administer opiates. Mr. White's wife arrived last night and remains at his bedside most of the time.

HORSE BROKE ITS NECK WHEN CAUGHT

Animal Belonging to Major Buell of Richland Committed Suicide Yesterday.

IN THE DAVIS BROTHERS BARN

In some peculiar manner a horse belonging to Major Buell of Richland broke its neck in the Davis Brothers livery barn yesterday. The animal was blind and had caught its head in the shoot running into the mow where the feed is thrown down. When the horse discovered that its head was fastened he began to pull and finally broke its neck. The men in the barn as soon as they discovered the trouble started to saw the shoot off. Just when they had about completed the work and the horse was almost free he killed himself. It is the supposition of the men in the barn that the horse was reaching for a cob and twisted his head in such a manner as to get it caught.

CHAPTER XLI.

Back to the Mountains.

In the cottage in Boney street, one year later, two women were waiting. It was ten o'clock at night.

"Isn't it a shame to be disappointed like this?" complained Dickie, pushing her hair impatiently back. "Really, poor George is worked to death. He was to be in at six o'clock, Mr. Lee said, and here it is ten, and all your beautiful dinner spoiled. Marion, are you keeping something from me? Look me in the eye. Have you heard from Gordon Smith?"

"No, Dickie."

"Not since he left the mountains a year ago?"

Dickie, sitting forward in her chair, bent her eyes upon the fire. "It is so strange. I wonder where he is tonight. How he loves you, Marion! He told me everything when he said good-by. He made me promise not to tell then; but I didn't promise to keep it forever."

Marion smiled. "A year isn't forever, Dickie."

"Well, it's pretty near forever when you are in love," declared Dickie, energetically. "I know just how he felt," she went on in a quieter tone. "He felt that all the disagreeable excitement and talk we had here then bore heavily on you. He said if he stayed in Medicine Bend the newspapers never would cease talking and people never would stop annoying you—and you know George did say they were asking to have passenger trains held here just so people could see Whispering Smith. And, Marion, think of it, he actually doesn't know yet that George and I are married! How could we notify him without knowing where he was? And he doesn't know that trains are running up the Crawling Stone valley. Mercy! a year goes like an hour when you're in love, doesn't it? George said he knew we should hear from him within six months—and George has never yet been mistaken excepting when he said I should grow to like the railroad business—and now it is a year and no news from him." Dickie sprang from her chair. "I am going to call up Mr. Rooney Lee and just demand my husband! I think Mr. Lee handles trains shockingly every time George tries to get home like this on Saturday nights—now don't you? And passenger trains ought to get out of the way, anyway, when a division superintendent is trying to get home. What difference does it make to a passenger, I'd like to know, whether he is a few hours less or longer in getting to California or Japan or Manila or Hong Kong or Buzzard's Gulch, provided he is safe—and you know there has not been an accident on the division for a year, Marion. There's a step now. I'll bet that's George!"

The door opened and it was George. "Oh, honey!" cried Dickie, softly, waving her arms as she stood an instant before she ran to him. "But haven't I been a waitin' for you!"

"Too bad! and, Marion," he exclaimed, turning without releasing his wife from his arms, "how can I ever make good for all this delay? Oh, yes, I've had dinner. Never, for heaven's sake, wait dinner for me! But wait, both of you, till you hear the news!"

Dickie kept her hands on his shoulders. "You have heard from Whispering Smith?"

"I have."

"I knew it!"

"Wait till I get it straight. Mr. Bucks is here—I came in with him in his car. He has news of Whispering Smith. One of our freight train men in the Puget sound country, who has been in a hospital in Victoria, learned by the merest accident that Gordon Smith was lying in the same hospital with typhoid fever."

Marion rose swiftly. "Then the time has come, thank God, when I can do something for him; and I am going to him to-night!"

"Fine!" cried McCloud. "So am I, and that is why I'm late."

"Then I am going, too," exclaimed Dickie, solemnly.

"Do you mean it?" asked her husband. "Shall we let her, Marion? Mr. Bucks says I am to take his car and take Barnhardt, and keep the car there till I can bring Gordon back. Mr. Bucks and his secretary will ride to-night as far as Bear Dance with us, and in the morning they join Mr. Glover there." McCloud looked at his watch. "If you are both going, can you be ready by 12 o'clock for the China mail?"

"We can be ready in an hour," declared Dickie, throwing her arm half around Marion's neck, "can't we, Marion?"

"I can be ready in 30 minutes."

"Then, by heaven—" McCloud studied his watch.

"What is it, George?"

"We won't wait for the midnight train. We will take an engine, run special to Green River, overhaul the Coast Limited, and save a whole day."

"George, pack your suit-case—quick, dear: and you, too, Marion; suit-cases as all we can take," cried Dickie, pushing her husband toward the bedroom. "I'll telephone Rooney Lee for an engine myself right away. Dear me, it is kind of nice, to be able to order up a train when you want one in a hurry, isn't it, Marion? Perhaps I shall come to like it if they ever make George a vice-president."

In half an hour they had joined Bucks in his car, and Bill Dancin was piling the baggage into the vestibule. Bucks was sitting down to coffee. Chairs had been provided at the table, and after the greetings, Bucks, seating Marion Sinclair at his right and Barnhardt and McCloud at his left, asked Dickie to sit opposite and pour the coffee. "You are a railroad man's wife now and you must learn to assume responsibility."

McCloud looked apprehensive. "I am afraid she will be assuming the whole division if you encourage her too much, Mr. Bucks."

"Marrying a railroad man," continued Bucks, pursuing his own thought, "is as bad as marrying into the army; if you have your husband half the time you are lucky. Then, too, in the railroad business your husband may have to be set back when the traffic falls off. It's a little light at this moment, too. How should you take it if we had to put him on a freight train for a while, Mrs. McCloud?"

"Oh, Mr. Bucks!"

"Or suppose he should be promoted and should have to go to headquarters—some of us are getting old, you know."

"Really," Dickie looked more demure as she filled the president's cup. "really, I often say to Mr. McCloud that I cannot believe Mr. Bucks is president of this great road. He always looks to me to be the youngest man on the whole executive staff. Two lumps of sugar, Mr. Bucks?"

The bachelor president rolled his eyes as he reached for his cup. "Thank you, Mrs. McCloud, only one after that." He looked toward Marion. "All I can say is that if Mrs. McCloud's husband had married her two years earlier he might have been general manager by this time. Nothing could hold a man back, even a man of his modesty, whose wife can say as nice things as that. By the way, Mrs. Sinclair, does this man keep you supplied with transportation?"

"Oh, I have my annual, Mr. Bucks!" Marion opened her bag to find it.

Bucks held out his hand. "Let me see it a moment." He adjusted his eye-glasses, looked at the pass, and called for a pen; Bucks had never lost his gracious way of doing very little things. He laid the card on the table and wrote across the back of it over his name: "Good on all passenger trains." When he handed the card back to Marion he turned to Dickie. "I understand you are laying out two

A Continual Stream of Evidence
tion—Saturday the 60$xu

Flowing in from Every Direction.
Saturday the Last Day of the Root Juice Demonstration.

If one can judge by the continual stream of evidence that is flowing in from every direction, the Root Juice demonstration at Wolcott's drug store, has proved a great blessing to scores of people of Rushville and surrounding country. Many that have suffered a long time with some trouble of the stomach, bowels, liver, kidneys or nerves, are now claiming entire freedom from all aches and pains. Among the many recent callers at Wolcott's drug store, to tell of wonderful good received from a short use of Root Juice was a gentleman who said that Root Juice had almost performed a miracle in his case; "I before using the remedy, was weak and nervous. My appetite was poor and digestion was so bad that the lightest foods would sour on my stomach, causing a formation of gas that would press against my heart and almost cause it to stop beating at times, but after taking the juice a short while, my appetite is good, my nerves are settled, and I digest everything I eat without a single disagreeable symptom." So many local people are praising the great remedy, that its rapid sale at Wolcott's drug store is no longer a surprise.

We are told that the demonstration at this point closes Saturday night. Until then the Root Juice is sold at $1 a bottle or three for $2.50.

or three towns on the ranch, Mrs. McCloud?

"Two or three! Oh, no, only one as yet, Mr. Bucks! They are laying out, oh, such a pretty town! Cousin Lance is superintending the street work—and whom do you think I am going to name it after? You! I think 'Bucks' makes a dandy name for a town; don't you? And I am going to have one town named Dunning; there will be two stations on the ranch, you know, and I think, really, there ought to be three."

"As many as that?"

"I don't believe you can operate a line that long, Mr. Bucks, with stations 14 miles apart." Bucks opened his eyes in benevolent surprise. Dickie, unabashed, kept right on: "Well, do you know how traffic is increasing over there, with the trains running only two months now? Why, the settlers are fairly pouring into the country."

"Will you give me a corner lot if we put another station on the ranch?"

"I will give you two if you will give us excursions and run some of the Overland passenger trains through the valley."

Bucks threw back his head and laughed in his tremendous way. "I don't know about that; I don't promise offhand, Mrs. McCloud. But if you can get Whispering Smith to come back you might lay the matter before him. He is to take charge of all the colonist business when he returns."

Whispering Smith, lying on his iron bed in the hospital, professed not to be able quite to understand why they had made such a fuss about it. He underwent the excitement of the appearance of Barnhardt and the first talk with McCloud and Dickie with hardly a rise in his temperature, and, lying in the sunshine of the afternoon, he was waiting for Marion. She ran half blinded across the room and dropped on her knee beside him.

"My dear Marion, why did they drag you away out here?"

"They did not drag me away out here. Did you expect me to sit with folded hands when I heard you were ill anywhere in the wide world?"

He looked hungrily at her. "I didn't suppose any one in the wide world would take it very seriously."

"Mr. McCloud is crushed this afternoon to think you have said you would not go back with him. You would not believe how he misses you."

"It has been pretty lonesome for the last year. I didn't think it could be so lonesome anywhere."

"Nor did I."

"Have you noticed it? I shouldn't think you could in the mountains. Was there much water last spring? Heavens, I'd like to see the Crawling Stone again!"

"Why don't you come back?"

He folded her hands in his own. "Marion, it is you. I've been afraid I couldn't stand it to be near you and not tell you—"

"What need you be afraid to tell me?"

"That I have loved you so long." Her head sunk close to his. "Don't you know you have said it to me many times without words? I've only been waiting for a chance to tell you how happy it makes me to think it is true."

We will give away absolutely FREE on New Years Day, 1910, a fine KURTZMAN Upright Piano, a Church Society, Fraternal Organization, Club or Individual, securing the greatest total value in coupons issued by the above named merchants, prior to Dec. 25, 1909. This Piano is recognized as one of the finest instruments made, having in its construction the very best of material and workmanship. More than 5000 KURTZMANN Pianos are now in use in Indiana and for over sixty years its popularity has gradually increased until today the "Old Reliable" KURTZMANN is the most talked of piano in the State. The one to be given away is richly designed in fancy mahogany, and has compartment bench to match.

The sole purpose of this progressive enterprise is to stimulate trade, promote a spirit of co-operation, and to encourage the people of Rush County to buy of home merchants.

Coupons will be issued by the above named firms to every customer for the amount of goods bought. The sum total of these coupons issued by the merchants, will determine the person or organization to which the Piano will be awarded. All coupons must be deposited with T. W. Lytle, Sec'y., or any member of the association, on or before Dec. 28, 1909, who in turn, will submit them to a committee of three Rushville Bankers, who will award the Piano to the person or organization sending in coupons representing the greatest amount of purchases.

VINCENNES VOTES TO RETAIN THE SALOONS

Outcome of Fiercely Contested Option Election.

Vincennes, Ind., Oct. 1.—At its local option election Thursday Knox county voted to retain the licensed saloon by a majority of 718. Vincennes went "wet" by a majority of 1,709. The "drys" carried the country precincts by a majority of 1,196.

The "wets" were jubilant and cheered while parading after the outcome was certain. The fight has been a bitter one, but now that the county has voted to remain "wet," many of the business men who supported the "wets" are declaring that there should be better regulation of Vincennes' seventy-two saloons than there has been in the past.

The liquor forces are rejoicing over the result of the election all the more because they believe that had the county voted "dry" the temperance forces would have prepared to attack Vanderburg, Vigo, Allen and St. Joseph counties and possibly Marion county within the next few weeks. They believe the result here will tend to discourage the temperance forces in these counties.

Secured Restraining Order.
Peoria, Ill., Oct. 1.—Henry H. Shufeldt & Co., rectifiers, of this city, have obtained a restraining order before Judge Kohlsaat in Chicago, directed to the commissioner of internal revenue, P. G. ## THE POOL EFFECTED

Vote of Burley Tobacco Raisers Was Well Nigh Unanimous.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 1.—That the 80 per cent vote necessary to declare the 1909 Burley Society pool has been secured, is indicated by reports from the fifty-odd counties in which burley tobacco is grown. At Paris, in Bourbon county, only was there an untoward demonstration and an attempt to defeat the pool, but this was overwhelmingly defeated. In Franklin county, of which the state capital, Frankfort, is county seat, but one vote was registered against the pool.

The burley district board, which heard the returns at Lexington, will meet at Winchester and, it is expected, declare the pool in effect. Reports are that in round numbers 101,000 acres have been pooled and 94,000 not pooled in Kentucky. It has been decided that the pooling books be held open until Oct. 20, and by that time much of the 94,000 acres outstanding will be gathered in. It is expected.

Trying to kill the catarrh germs?
Might just as well try to kill a cat with fresh milk.
Sticking a piece of chewing gum in the upper left hand corner of the right ear would slaughter just as many germs.

You can't kill the germs that cause catarrh unless you get where they are.

You can get where the germs are by breathing Hyomei, the powerful, yet soothing antiseptic, which is prepared especially to kill catarrh germs.

Just breathe it in, that's all. It gives joyful relief in five minutes. It is guaranteed by F. B. Johnson's Drug Store to cure catarrh, or money back.

It is sold by leading druggists everywhere. A complete outfit, including inhaler, costs $1.00. Extra bottles, 50 cents. Cures sore throat, coughs and colds.

"I take especial pride in recommending Hyomei to asthmatic sufferers, as I know by experience that it is a remedy that cures. I have not since using Hyomei had any recurrence of asthma."—Mrs. Wm. Burton, Owosso, Mich., June 22, 1909.

WHY SALVES FAIL TO CURE ECZEMA

They Clog the Pores—Only a Liquid Can Reach the Inner Skin.

Since the old-fashioned theory of curing eczema through the blood has been given up by scientists, many different salves have been tried for skin disease. But it has found that these salves only clog the pores and can not penetrate to the inner skin below the epidermis where the eczema germs are lodged.

This—the quality of penetrating—probably explains the tremendous success of the only standard liquid eczema cure, oil of wintergreen as compounded in D. D. D. Prescription. After ten years of cure after cure, the world's leading skin specialists have accepted this as the true eczema cure.

We ourselves do not hesitate to recommend D. D. D. Prescription at $1.00 a bottle, but for the benefit of those who have never tried the prescription, we arranged with the D. D. Laboratories of Chicago for a special large trial bottle at 25 cents on a special offer now. This first bottle ought to convince every sufferer, and, at any rate, it will surely take away the itch at once.

For sale by Lytle's Drug Store.

CROWD HEARS SCIENCE TALK

was the statement of Mr. McCrackan. He said the Christian Scientist believed that the knowledge of the eternal principles of all life constituted a demonstrable science.

He pointed out that the early Christians healed the sick by spiritual means for about three hundred years after Christ, just as Christ and the disciples had done, but in later years the healing of sick was relegated to a special profession with material means.

"Since Mrs. Eddy's discovery of Christian Science the healing of Jesus' time has been reinstated in accordance with his unmistakable injunction to his followers, and today hundreds of thousands of men, women and children in all portions of the globe rise to bless the good, brave woman to whom they owe their health and happiness," declared Mr. McCrackan.

In summing up what Christian Science had done for people the speaker said that first of all it had exposed the philosophy of despair as unscientific. Its teachings obliterate and suppress reasons for pessimism, he said.

"It is not possible to reform the sinner nor heal the sick in Christian Science by emotionalism," he said. In every instance the beneficent result is based upon science, upon an underlying conviction and understanding concerning spiritual facts. It is not possible to heal the sick by Christian Science while believing that disease proceeds from God, any more than to reform the sinner while believing that God is the author of sin.

"Nor is it possible in Christian Science to reform the sinner or heal the sick by what is termed suggestion. The practitioner who should try to influence, cajole or force his subject to believe anything which he himself does not believe is trying to deceive himself and his subject and is using some kind of will power, whether it be styled mental suggestion, mesmerism, animal magnetism, or hypnotism. The practitioner who should suggest to his subject some state of mind which the practitioner imagines to be desirable, but does not believe to be true, is not practicing Christian Science."

Because	in the fall the weather is more uniformly warm and sunny and more settled.
Because	in the fall paint can be more successfully applied than in damp, cloudy or unsettled weather.
Because	in the fall there are usually no dust-laden, insect carrying winds.
Because	in the fall the wood is dry and the paint penetrates deeper, securing a firmer hold on it.
Because	in the fall a paint application dries harder, more naturally and consequently will wear longer.

HATS THAT CAN BE WASHED

Desirable for Children and Also Their Elders—Description of Pretty Model.

A hat that can go into the wash-tub each week is essential for a child and desirable for grown-ups. A rather new model, that can be easily copied, has two parts that are detachable and held together by buttons and straps. For the brim make a circle of heavy linen as large as you desire your hat to be. The proper size is easily gauged by measuring with a flat, round straw hat that is becoming. Work the edge of circle with an irregular scallop, heavily padded and buttonholed in white or a color. The brim can be worked with as simple or as elaborate a design as is liked. A number of graduated satin stitch dots or eyelets are effective, or there can be a number of detached leaf sprays radiating from the crown of the hat and spreading toward the outer edge. These can be outlined and filled in with a darning stitch if time presses. An inner circle is cut out the size of crown of hat. Or it can be made slightly smaller and the edges slit at intervals to permit it to be basted smoothly to a frame if one be used. For the crown cut a smaller circle, the size to smoothly cover frame if one is used or big enough to give an easy, shapely top when parts are joined. This circle is cut with eight straps an inch wide and from two to two and a half inches long, according to height desired for crown. Between each strap the edge of circle is cut into a pointed scallop.

The outer edge of circle and straps is then buttonholed in a narrow edge about a quarter of an inch deep. In the end of each strap is put a lengthwise buttonhole and corresponding buttons are put on the brim. Should the crown be used over a gauze frame the brim is first basted to it and the buttons put on frame, or both top and brim can be buttoned to it.

The only trimming for this hat is a broad, soft ribbon drawn under the straps which hold the crown in place. For a little child this is pretty, fastened at each side with fluffy rosettes; for an older person the ribbon can be tied either at back or front in a big Alsatian bow.

When a frame is not used a certain stiffness can be given to crown by running strip of buckram or canvas under the straps before the ribbon is slipped through. If preferred, the pointed scallops between straps can be made longer than the usual scallop, so that they fall loosely over ribbon when the hat is joined.

Rio de Janeiro, with a population of 900,000, spent more money for public improvements last year than any city in the United States excepting New York.

Dainty Candle Shades

A dainty candle shade gives a pretty finish to table, mantel or dresser, and the new tinted flower shades mounted over colored silk are most attractive. The woman who is clever with her brushes may make no end of pretty things, but these shades may be imitated even by those who know nothing about painting, providing they put the color on in a neat, careful manner.

The first step is to trace the design on a piece of water-color paper, then color it, either shading, if one knows how, or using flat washes with pen and ink outline. In the latter case use waterproof ink, going over every line when the paint is dry. This wash and outline work is quite as effective as the more difficult light and shade. In either case use a light brown for the stems, two shades of green for the leaves, the smaller leaves the lighter, and the centers of the flowers yellow, with the inner petals of the roses deep rose and the outer petals delicate pink. This is mounted over a pink silk shade.

The design is planned so that the joining of the shade is imperceptible. The tab marked A slips under the corresponding letter on the opposite side. B and B, and C under the letter C. The tabs are to be glued in this manner. Before joining, however, the background of the design is to be cut out with small pointed scissors, leaving a delicate tracery of leaves and flowers. The effect of the silk under the flowers is very pretty.

The little shades may be purchased all ready to slip the painted shade over, and the design given is planned to exactly fit them. They come bead-fringed in all colors for 50 cents, the best variety with silk outside and a lining of mica, a thin substance that will not burn. Then there are dainty little separate silk linings of different colors with a silk fringe to match for 15 cents.

The pink shades are, perhaps, the most effective with the wild rose design, but yellow is also pretty. If a yellow lining is used, then the flowers may be painted yellow. A light green lining is also pretty under the pink or yellow shade.

Taking a nap in the afternoon if you are going out late in the evening brightens you up.

Breathing the fumes of turpentine or carbolic acid is said to relieve whooping cough.

A cloth wrung out from cold water put about the neck at night is good for a sore throat.

A simple lotion for wrinkles is composed of: Tannin, one ounce; rose water, five ounces; glycerin, two ounces. Apply with a camel's hair brush. When used frequently wrinkles are apt to disappear, unless too deeply seated, and the appearance of new ones is delayed. Of course facial massage would be beneficial.

Do not think because your ancestors dressed their babies for the first year in wool that you must follow suit. Treat a child as an individual. There are some babies to whom wool is annoying even in cold weather, and torture in summer. In this climate gauze is all that most people can endure during July and August.

For a good perfume take five ounces extract jessamine, 20 of extract orris, seven of extract musk, one and one-half drams each of otto rose virgin and santal flor, two and one-half otto bergamot and two of benzoic acid, 40 minims otto super; water and alcohol to make bulk. This can be made in lesser quantities.

Buckle of Gold Braid.

A beautiful buckle of any desired shape may be made by plating three strands of the narrowest gold braid together and wiring on the back. Nothing could be nicer as a finish for an empire belt, for the ready-made buckles of metal not only tear the lace in the gown, but scratch all the furniture in the house.

New Styles are Flattering

Somebody—a mere man I think it must have been—stumbled over the new name "la laveuse" and blundered into the still newer one, "la lisonjera." Really, when you stop to think of it, it wasn't such a bad break, after all. There is a great deal of kinship between the washwoman and the flatterer, says Edouard La Fontaine in The Delineator for October. The latter is a prettier name, certainly; perhaps too descriptive, but quite as truthful, as the first. For there is no doubt about it—the new styles are flattering. Take the least attractive of women and put her in the most attractive dresses—a soft petal-like drapery, a beguiling feminine bib, and a fichu that makes you think of Marie Antoinette, or the "Lady with a Muff"—and you may take my word for it that the gown will cajole the most uncompromising form and features into something very close to beauty.

It really seems as if the gowns of the present year had been especially designed to make plain women lovely and lovely women still lovelier. Take for instance, a dress that I saw at a casino dinner not long ago. It was so very beautiful that you quite forgot to analyze its wearer's charm and simply set her down in your memory as a most enchanting person.

The gown was made for the most part of a wonderful broche silk—a silvery background with a brocade pattern of heavy-headed flowers in a dull poppy-pink. The bodice was made with a bib drapery that sloped downward from an inverted V-shaped point at the back and up from under the arms into a wide tab at the front. Over the shoulders was laid a broad, fichu-like drapery that was fastened under the bib with small buttons entirely encrusted with brilliants. The chemisette, which was decollete of course, was rather wide and quite deep, for it extended down under the corselet both at the front and back. It was of silver tulle sown with small brilliants. The skirt was almost indescribable, but wholly lovely. The upper part was an overskirt of the silk that reached almost to the hem of the dress in the front and was caught up into the belt at the back.

IN DECORATING THE HOUSE

Several Simple But Most Important Principles Which Should Be Understood.

There are a few principles, simple but most important, which should be understood by every woman who sets out to be her own interior decorator. Do not hang curtains of one color against a wallpaper of another.

If possible to avoid do not put different papers on the walls of rooms which adjoin, with wide archways or folding doors between.

If it is necessary, the character of the rooms, to have slightly different kinds of paper, let them be as near alike as possible in color. The design does not make so much difference.

Do not join carpets of opposite colors.

When it is not possible to have carpets alike in rooms joined by wide openings, a rug should be laid over the seam to hide it.

Oriental rugs, beautiful as they are, should be used with discretion. In a small, many-colored room they are likely to "howl" at each other.

They are very good when used to light up a one-tone room.

TUSSAH SILK WAIST.

Blouse of tussah silk trimmed in an original way with fagoted bands of the same material. The jabot is of the silk and lace.

The sleeves, trimmed to correspond, have a tucked strap of the silk on the outside, finished with the lace.

Use Twisted Cotton.

Some women waste their time in feather-stitching dainty garments with embroidery thread. The embroidery thread being soft, when the garment is laundered it is pressed into the material and loses its individuality. Twisted cotton, which comes by the ball in various numbers, and which is sometimes used for crocheting, is the most satisfactory thread with which to do this dainty work.

Rushville Will!

Mothers and The Schools

In a recent letter to Theodore Dreiser, editor of the Delineator, a mother asked this question: "If I am compelled to send my children to school, how can I compel the school authorities to have a clean school and keep diseases out?"

It is a question that should bring every mother up standing, says the editor, and we urge that before enrolling her children in school, every mother shall answer to her own satisfaction the following questions:

Have sufficient precautions been taken to prevent development of contagious diseases in the school? Are the children examined by a physician before being admitted? Are children with colds, coughs, sore throats, tuberculosis, pediculosis, scabies, sore eyes, etc., excluded? Has the school house been thoroughly cleaned, aired, warmed and disinfected? Is there a thermometer in each room, and are two opposite windows always raised? Is the room cleaned every day? Is dry cleaning permitted? Are individual towels and individual drinking cups insisted upon? Has the plumbing been inspected? Are the toilets kept in sanitary condition? Can every child read normal print at the desk without eye-strain? Are highly colored text-books or shiny blackboards that strain the eyes permitted? Is too much "close-range" work given to young children? Are the windows clean or so clouded that they dim the light? Are the desks adjustable to the height of each child? Is there regular instruction in personal hygiene and in the sanitation of school and home? Do teachers receive such instruction? Do children have defects of eyesight, hearing, lungs, bones or teeth that make school work injurious? Are study periods too long? Are recess and recreation taken in the fresh air? Do all children have a substantial hot lunch? Is the walk to school longer than a child should take? Is too much home study given?

A Swede has constructed an aerial torpedo which is claimed to be capable of destroying a fortification or the biggest battleship afloat. It weighs 22 pounds.

Seven 325-ton locomotives, each twenty-five tons heavier than the largest built, are nearing completion at Philadelphia for the Harriman lines.

A Ribbon Pinholder.
For this pretty pinholder five different lengths of 1½-inch satin ribbon are suspended from a brass ring crocheted over with heavy embroidery silk. To the ring is also attached a bow of the satin ribbon, just by way of decoration. The lower end of each ribbon is looped through a brass ring and hemmed. These rings are not covered. To make this an acceptable present, each ring is filled with safety pins, slipped on and clasped. Two sizes of black pins may be used and three of nickel, including the very smallest shield pins.

Gingham Cushion Covers.
Pretty cushion covers are made of dress gingham in plain colors, old rose, Alice blue, green or yellow, to correspond with the color scheme of the room. The covers are feather-stitched in white to inclose inside the edge and are finished with buttons and buttonholes, so that they can be laundered when necessary.

Learn to Relax.
Relaxation is the secret of taking the mental, moral and physical kinks out of one's system in the warm weather. It will take all the unsightly lines from your face and prevent new ones from forming.

Remedy for Burns.
A simple remedy for burns is made by adding to a cupful of olive oil a teaspoonful of carbolic acid. Apply bandage soaked in the mixture.

Christmas Gift Hints

As there are so many women who prefer really what is called "straight-away" sewing to the more intricate stitches of embroidery, I have found it desirable to suggest a few little trifles which may be made at small cost and at little trouble. My object in telling you about these things is to put before you the simplest, yet at the same time the simplest, articles that I can, so that even at the very last moment my suggestions might be of some use.

To-day there are two workbags to which I wish to call your attention. One is made entirely of a single handkerchief. This is a silk in a pretty shade of violet and is very large—the largest procurable. The hemstitched corners are allowed to hang to form a trimming for the bag, as the handkerchief is caught up in the middle of each side. The creases thus made are sewn together and the bag so arranged that it will open sufficiently, but not enough to spread out perfectly flat. Bone rings, which may be procured for a few cents the dozen are fastened on each corner and each side. There are eight in all, and through these a piece of broad violet ribbon is run.

To get the corners right you lay a large handkerchief out straight and pick up the middle of each side so that the corners fall and the loose sides may be tacked together.

The other bag is very simple to make, although the material is a little harder to get. In the first place, a basket must be procured which is as shallow as a plate. This may be about ten inches in diameter, so that the back will have a broad and sensible foundation. Next 1½ yards of pompadour ribbon is necessary, and this is best when chosen in the widest width that comes. Join the two ends so that the ribbon will make a circle and put two gathering threads round the bottom. Pull these up so the ribbon may be secure, with an overstitch, all round the edge of the basket. At the top of the ribbon fasten bone rings at intervals of two inches all the way round. Run through these a piece of two-inch ribbon in a shade to match the darkest color of the design in pompadour ribbon, and, if desirable, make a few pockets of this narrow ribbon by sewing it to the inside of the bag. I think, however, that this is hardly necessary, for the basket is so satisfactory, and it serves so well to keep everything separated.

These bags are quickly made and one might call them "last-minute Christmas gifts."

TURBAN IN REVIVAL

PICTURESQUE HEADGEAR IS TO COME BACK.

Has Been Popular with the Fair Sex in Many Generations—Convenient and Attractive for Long Journey.

And now some fashion prophet, or, indeed, perchance a prophetic, foretells the turban as a feature of the millinery for the later season. The fact that this smart-looking close hat has already graced a race meeting in France seems sufficient to guarantee to the prophet that it will win out.

If this turban, with its twisted drapery, is now an English favorite, as we have been informed, it was of East Indian origin, and long ago it was distinctly Greek, and comes not without a pedigree—its past history is assured. A long popularity was enjoyed by it during the Madame de Stael days, when it was both street hat and evening headdress. We know of it pulled quite far down over the head, disclosing only some ringlets that escaped its bounds, and we well remember Thackeray's dowagers whose plumes bobbed in unison with their turbaned heads and their indignation.

The plume has given way before the more saucy-looking aigrette, as a trimming for the present turban, although its main attraction is the covering, which is wrapped, rolled, folded or twisted to suit the face beneath it. A fitted straw hat is the body of the up-to-date turban, sometimes so close to the head as to be almost ball-shaped. The less extreme turban is a sewn tagal straw of white or blue, which shows through the drapery, some of them, indeed, covered with folds of straw and foulard held on by a straw cabochon.

These make excellent traveling hats. Others are swathed with white marquisette or liberty crepe held in place by an ornamental hatpin; and again we are shown the white or dyed lace veil used as a covering for the straw, or a chiffon scarf or veil with a yard of its extreme length falling over the shoulders—just as a touch of grace.

The swathed turban is most convenient and attractive for long journeys. The veil may be removed, pressed and replaced to gain the needed freshness. It is a joy to the clever woman, who can adapt one hat to a half dozen gowns, be their colors as varied as Joseph's coat. We can picture the economical, resourceful woman wrapping her hat by turns, with some harmonious foulard, a hand-run lace veil, three yards of automobile chiffon hemstitched at the ends or some scarf of iridescent gauze.

A knowledge of the arts of draping and combining colors are very useful for the girl of the present period. In the scarfs which everybody and her sister is wearing more depends upon the way they are arranged than on the material of which they are fashioned. As to color, the dressmaker and the milliner may both do their work satisfactorily, but to put their efforts together charmingly depends largely upon the cleverness of the wearer.

Collar.

A pretty collar can be made from a handkerchief. Choose one with a scalloped edge and a design of small embroidered flowers.

Cut off three corners about two and a half inches in depth. Then make a stock of muslin and fasten the little tabs on it, one in the center and one on either side. The part that remains of the handkerchief is plaited, and forms the jabot, which is sewed at the bottom of the stock.

Many Kinds of Cuffs.

The choice of a cuff is as broad as the choice of a collar. The cheaper variety of shirt-waists have the straight stiffened cuff, cut like the one on a man's shirt, and held together with link buttons.

It is far prettier, however, to avoid this sign of a cheap waist and put on narrow turnover cuffs or wrinkle the sleeves over the wrist and finish with a tiny edge of lace; then fasten with lace buttons.

Keeping Table Linen.

In keeping the table linen that is not in daily use many a housekeeper is annoyed to find it has yellowed badly and must be washed before it can go on the table again.

This can be overcome, if after being laundered, the cloths and napkins are carefully wrapped in deep blue paper or in a sheet that has been heavily blueed.

A Writer of Merit

would be necessary for us to be able to describe to you all the good points about the kind of clothes we sell. Of course if you are an observant person you no doubt have noticed lots of those good looking duds that have come from this store. Better yet, if you have the inclination for further enlightenment on the clothes question, a little visit of a few spare minutes will enable you to draw a clearer conception of our styles and qualities.

This store is open all day long (except Sunday, Christmas, Thanksgiving and the Fourth of July) every day of the year, and there is always a standing invitation to everybody to come in and look. SAY—many a fellow has congratulated himself on the fact that he did look.

First Trip Over New Florida Road

Rushville Men Sends Interesting Announcement of Trip over "Keys".

The first excursion on the F. E. C. railway in Florida ran last Sunday. Gilbert Meredith and son Tom who are holding responsible positions with the railway are much interested in the development of the company's interest and have sent the following which is taken from the Miami Morning News-Record of last Saturday:

Tomorrow morning the first popular excursion to the extension, will take place.

This is the first opportunity that any but business men and tourists have had to see the wonderful road over the keys.

A well appointed excursion train, with ample accommodations for all will leave the F. E. C. Railway station tomorrow morning at 7 o'clock, arriving at Knights Key at 11:30.

Ample time will be given there for the excursionists to eat their lunches and to inspect the great building operations going on in that vicinity.

Returning the train will leave Knights Key at 1:30 p. m.; arriving in this city at 5:30, making altogether one of the most pleasant as well as most unique excursion trips that can be taken in this part of the world.

The observant excursionists will have the opportunity of seeing all the wonderful agricultural country that lies between this city and Homestead, the last station in the solid mainland of the United States.

Before the keys are reached there in a considerable stretch of Everglade or salt swamp land that is of great interest.

Passing Jewish creek, the road enters on to Key Largo and for miles one can get swift glimpses of blue ocean, alternating with the dense tropical growth of the wonderful keys.

Key after key is passed with due speed, and one is bewildered by the constant change from ocean, bay and lagoon to wild forest and cultivated farms. Nowhere, probably is there a greater variety of scenery exhibited to the traveller's eye.

Between Long Key and Grassy Key tomorrow's excursionists will have a chance to see and to ride over the greatest concrete viaduct in the world. It is already two and three-quarters miles long, and passes over one of the deepest inlets on the Florida coast.

At Marathon and Knights Key one can obtain a sight idea of the immensity of the work which has been and is being carried on. Immense quarries, shops, warehouses and docks testify as to the amount of labor and money it is taking to construct the great viaduct bridges and roads now in course of construction.

At Knights Key will be seen that great steel bridge which is stretching out across the broad expanse of water to Pigeon Key.

Taking it altogether a no more pleasant or profitable day could be devised than that planned for tomorrow's excursion.

OF LACE AND MATERIAL

For a bodice in which the same material as skirt is wished to be introduced, this is a good idea, as there is not too much material about it; it is finely tucked for the vest, also for the sleeve bands, but is plain for the sleeves. Piece lace with a scalloped edge is used for the over-bodice, also for the epaulettes. A binding of velvet gives a firmness in the center of front, straps of velvet are taken across, and caught down by buttons. Materials required: One yard 46 inches wide, two and one-half yards piece lace, one and one-fourth yard velvet, two buttons.

Petticoats for Evening Wear.

The question of petticoats for evening wear is easily settled this year. A satin skirt of such ancient cut that it can no longer do duty even if covered with an overdress of lace or net represents the ideal material for an up-to-date evening petticoat. If mounted on taffetas the gores must be unpicked, and the separate lengths of satin sponged with pure alcohol if soiled and the seams ironed out and a good paper pattern of one of the new fitted underskirts procured, so that the remodeled garment will lie perfectly flat over the hips and betray no fullness anywhere.

Copper tubes are preferred to steel in locomotive boilers by many European experts.

Raymond Dyspepsia Tablets

Are You Bothered?

If you are troubled with Dyspepsia in any of its forms, if you feel that lump in the pit of your stomach after eating, you should give RAYMOND DYSPEPSIA TABLETS a trial at once.

Our formula for these tablets, which we have made in 10,000 lots, is one that we are not afraid to guarantee to you for the cure of any case of Dyspepsia.

Can You Eat?

Can you eat cabbage, radishes, onions and eatables of that nature without being troubled afterwards?

We can refer you to people in Rushville who didn't dare to eat a tomato or cabbage before they commenced taking Raymond Dyspepsia tablets.

They are the greatest food digesters we have ever known.

Our Guarantee

Each 25c box of Raymond Dyspepsia Tablets contains ten days' treatment. We will sell you five boxes (50 day's treatment) for $1.00, and if after using them continuously in accordance with our directions you are not satisfied that you have been wonderfully benefitted, we will gladly refund your money, or if you desire, we will give you another 50 day treatment FREE.

What People Say

A recommendation from people who have used Raymond Dyspepsia Tablets is worth more than what we could say to you. READ THEM.

Rushville, Indiana, August 8, 1902

I wish to say that "I know by experience" that RAYMOND DYSPEPSIA TABLETS is the best medicine advertised for the trouble it is designed to cure, and I know that its use is persisted in that it WILL CURE.

Very truly yours,

H. C. YAUKEY.

Hargrove & Mullin, Rushville, Ind.
Dear Sirs:—You ask me to give my opinion of Raymond Dyspepsia Tablets, and I can say that going to your store one day I bought a dyspepsia remedy of another kind, you gave me a box of yours to try. I have used several boxes and since that time have gained 15 pounds, and I give Raymond Dyspepsia Tablets all the credit.

Yours truly,

New Birth Cards Out

Instead of the conventional engraved cards of parents and new born child tied with white satin ribbons, there is a novelty card that is charming.

It is the hand painted profile of a baby's head on a long white paper slip. One little hand and the careless frill of lace around the neck is suggested in pencil.

On the white paper is written the name of the newly born and the date of its birth.

The long, narrow envelopes is also hand made and sealed with the family crest in way or a tiny silver seal, with the family initial in the center.

The day after the great event these cards are mailed to all friends of the couple in all parts of the country.

If one must pay to have them done the cost is not slight, but if one is clever with the brush it proves a pleasant and simple task.

CONSPICIOUS SHOES

A pair of shoes may be conspicuous for either of two reasons, because they look particularly bad or because they look particularly good. WALK-OVER Shoes are in the latter class from the first day they are worn till the last day. That's but one reason why you should buy them: there are many other reasons equally good. Find out at our store some of the many other reasons why the WALK-OVER is the shoe for you.

RUN TO FULLNESS

DOMINATING FEATURE OF FALL SLEEVES AND SKIRTS.

Long Princess Lines Are to Continue Popular—Consolation for Women to Whom They Are Not Especially Adapted.

In the newest fall models, one notices immediately that the sleeves and skirts seem to have more fullness. The skirt yoke also seems an important feature, together with the long princess lines.

Some of these styles are bizarre and trying—a stout woman in one of these one-piece, close fitting frocks makes herself ugly in the extreme, and she should never adopt such a style.

The corsage and skirt have come back, to the consolation of those women who cannot wear these princess lines, and many waists and separate skirts are seen. The new skirts present so many arrangements of fullness that almost every figure may be suited.

For those women who do not look good in the long, close fitting gown, attractive models are shown with drapery on both bodice and skirt, relieving these long lines.

For the slender woman the yokes and cuirass frocks are chic and attractive if well made and cleverly adapted to the individual figure.

An inch or two in the depth or height of a cuirass or yoke may make all the difference between a becoming frock and one that's unbecoming, and such points should be carefully considered. A contrast of material in such models is out of the question for some figures while very satisfactory for others.

The model gown shown here to-day is made up of plum colored cloth with trimmings of buttons. The skirt shows one of the new styles and the bodice with its Irish collar, is also a new touch this fall.

The hats are practical models with trimmings of large quills which may be seen each season with perhaps a little difference in shape.

The neckwear is made up of sheer lawn and lace, with here and there a touch of hand embroidery. The Dutch collars of lace will be as popular this winter as they have been during the summer, and many girls will wear the neck low with no chemise.

Comfort Protectors.

Take a piece of cheesecloth four inches longer than a bed quilt is wide, split it exactly in the center, hem-stitch both pieces (making the hem two inches wide) on all but the selvage edges, and you have two pretty comfort protectors costing about six cents each. A monogram or a pretty linen lace edge adds to the dainty effect. Baste the selvage edge along the under side of the top of the comfort, draw it smoothly down over the right side and tack at the corners and lower edge of the hem. It is easily removed and laundered and saves the comfort much wear and washing. These are quickly made and will sell at a church fair for several times the cost of the material. A bride-to-be would like them, or you might make some for the housewife's Christmas box.—Woman's Home Companion.

The Jersey Dress.

The Jersey dress has been met with, but it has not been carefully introduced. Its credentials have not come with it and it is misunderstood. It is hardly to be regarded as a coming fashion—it is here. Whether or not it will be found a favorite and encouraged for any length of time, its place is within the present fashion period and its time is now. It is not put forth as a dressy garment, but as a fairly low-priced and convenient one for the lover of the cuirass, or fitted princess, and for the buyer of things new. Its happiest expression is a beaded, glittering surface and a well-tied sash.

RUGS AND WALLS IN HARMONY

To Have the Floor the Darkest Tone Is Always a Safe Decorative Rule to Follow.

A floor should be the lowest or darkest tone in the room, then the walls and the ceiling the lightest or highest. This is the natural way and the safest to follow as a general rule. It gives a feeling of firmness and solidity to the floor, whereas, if the order is reversed and the floor is lighter than the ceiling, one feels that the ceiling is coming down on one's head and that dodging is the only way to escape a blow. The floor should support the walls in color as well as in fact, but care must be taken not to make the mistake of thinking that strength of color is obtrusiveness of color. Strength of color in the right place will make the scheme of decoration a successful and satisfying one, but obtrusiveness of color will make a hopeless failure of it, declares a writer in the Woman's Home Companion.

The chief color of the rug should be the chief color of the walls—not necessarily the same tone, but harmonizing tones of the same shade. If the walls are a soft yellow, a rug with different shades of brown, and to give the needed note of contrast, dull soft red and blues would look well in the room. This kind of rug would also go well with green or blue walls. The proportion of the different colors in a rug may make or mar it for one's special use. In choosing a rug it is best to have a feeling of one predominant color, with the other colors adding the snap that contrast gives and forming a harmonious and delightful whole.

Before finally deciding on a rug, ask to have it sent to the house to try in the spot for which it is intended, because what looks quite wonderful in the shop may prove quite unsatisfactory in the house. Be sure to try it with the light against the nap and then with it; one will be astonished to see what a difference in the appearance of the rug it makes.

FOULARD WAIST

Blouse of pale blue dotted foulard ornamented with motifs of guipure.

The yoke and sleeve caps are cut in one piece and are of the silk, shirred and trimmed with guipure.

The undersleeves, also of the material, are finished with deep cuffs of the guipure. The sash is of plain silk.

Interchangeable Scarf.

The possibilities of the chiffon and the mousseline scarf have never been greater, for, as they appear with almost every costume, madame may obtain an indefinite number of effects by the exercise of merely ordinary ingenuity.

A single scarf may be made to do duty at once for veil and hat trimming while driving, walking or motor-ing, and the same scarf may appear again in the afternoon as a swathing sash, or even as one of the new Henry III. mantles. In the evening the scarf may again form part of the costume, either as a shoulder throw or as a mantilla.

Veil scarfs of soft silk chiffon may be procured in shades of taupe, natter, blue, rose ecru, khaki and green, besides all the usual pastel shades and black and white. Many, too, may be found with edges hand-painted or embroidered, while others are printed in soft and lovely Persian shades. The woman with the scarf may be far more entrancing and beautiful than even the woman with the fan.

When Making Baby's Bib.

It is a mistake to make a baby's bib of too sheer material. A fine soft linen of opaque grade makes a serviceable as well as a dainty bib. Keep the scallops shallow as heavy scallops ruin the daintiness of the embroidery. Even when the heavier linen is chosen it must be fine, not stiff, the sort of a bib that is a real protection.

Every bib should have a quilted lining underneath it. This is made of two thicknesses of linen either the same grade as outside or coarser. Cut it in the shape of the bib, but a little smaller.

Gloves with Circles.

The smart gloves that many fashionable women are wearing has the back heavily embroidered with circles in colored silk. This is in the color, if not tone, as the kid of the glove.

To Tell Right Side of Goods. In making up dresses of wool serge it is a time saver to learn that the serge weave's twill always runs to the right on the right side of the goods.

But She Knows Styles

There is something very pitiable about a girl. She wears calico, but talks knowingly about the latest styles in silks. Her house is furnished plainly, but she knows the latest styles in furniture; she knows how the silver ware should be arranged at dinners, the latest stitch for the marking of monograms on the finest table damask, the etiquette to be observed at a dinner, a reception or a ball, although she never attended anything more than a neighborhood party in her life. Her father's monthly income is not as large as the pin money a rich girl would spend in a day, but she knows what the rich girl should wear and buy to be in touch with the times. She is, in short prepared at any time to marry a rich man and become a society leader.

Oriental Style of Sashing the Skirt

Among evening gowns the bayadere or Oriental style of sashing the skirt just above the knees, is one of the most notable and daring innovations of the season. It is popularly supposed abroad that Paquin took the idea from the costume of the Nautch girl. It is variously called the Indian drapery.

One lovely dress had the tunic body of closely-flowered chiffon hung almost straight from the bust to the knees, falling into a very natural and graceful drapery at the waistline. The Indian scarf of deep rose colored satin appeared at the lower edge of the overdress and tied in an immense chon over the left knee. The lower part of the dress was of soft white chiffon, rather full, but, being absolutely bodiless, it fell in around the feet in the usual slinky fashion of the present day.

Tulle is worn not only as the foundation material of many dresses, but as the trimming and decoration of many others. Lace tulle, armure tulle, beaded tulle and a silk tulle of irregular mesh with small gold and silver beads and crystal bugles scattered over it, are used as guimpes and sleeves and trimming bands. In short, there is every indication that the styles of the coming year will be much richer as to materials, more ornate as to trimmings and more complicated in regard to their design, cut and construction than they have been during the last twenty or thirty years.

FOLLY IN FRETTING

SENSITIVE GIRL CAUSES OWN UNHAPPINESS.

Her Wounds Are Self-Inflicted and Vanish When She Has Brought Herself to Take Healthy View of Life.

She has a hard time, goodness knows, even among her family and friends, for her feelings are always being hurt by some of them. But when she goes into the business world it will seem to fairly bristle with thorns, so many will be the slights she will apparently receive.

Most of the wounds of the sensitive girl are self-inflicted, only, unfortunately, she doesn't know it. When she gains this knowledge her suffering and her tears will soon cease.

It is wisdom that is slow in coming, for you can't make the sensitive girl believe that the slights directed her way are not intended. She is so sure in her mind that her grievance is just that argument is hopeless.

Indeed, argument is hopeless most of the time with the sensitive girl. If you number such a one among your friends or in your family, try to change her way of looking at the world, instead of arguing with her that her grievances are groundless.

Try to get her to see that the world is too big and people too busy to be occupied in thinking up ways to hurt her feelings, and that in the main people are too kind to do such things anyway. The idea that people are continually shooting arrows her way comes frequently from an overdeveloped ego. She believes other people are thinking as much about herself as she is, and their words and actions she misconstrues as directed to herself, when the probability is they never had her in mind at all nor thought of such a construction being put upon their conduct.

This is particularly true in business. Business people are entirely too rushed to mince words or to consider how people may take what they say. The sensitive girl is extremely foolish to think every unkind word, every slur about poorly done work or slowness is directed at her. Rest assured if her work doesn't suit, she will hear directly from her employer. He won't beat around the bush about it. And she needn't torture herself with the thought that he is whipping her over somebody's else's shoulders.

Common sense and a philosophical spirit are good cures for sensitiveness. But these are the very qualifications the sensitive girl is apt to lack. The best thing to help her is to mix with the world and with people, to get a big, broad view of life where in she will see how extremely small she and her affairs are. This will gradually give her a saner and more rational viewpoint and her extreme sensitiveness will disappear. She will become much happier, much more companionable. The sensitive girl should endeavor to get this view of life, for she is making herself wretched over things which in the main do not exist, for most of the slights and wounds to her feelings are imaginary, not real. And it is a pity to spoil life with imaginary ills.

WAIST FOR COOL DAYS

Blouse of biscuit-colored cloth, trimmed in an original way with darker velvet, with ecru guipure, and with silk buttons and loops of soutache.

The little tucked guimpe is of ecru tulle.

Nightcaps.

The arrival of the nightcap in all its old-time freshness and with an added glory of lace rosettes above each string should give a flutter of pure delight to the woman of the wavy hair. The bought wave is not inclined to stand too much reckless sleeping and a nightmare or two means death to a half-worn wave. Having paid out her good money for curls, or, worse, having charged these perishable beautifiers, Miss Vanity will hail the nightcap with rejoicing; and, whether or not the cap will be usurped by the most modern of maidens as a curl protector, its revival means one more little garment for grandma. Fine handkerchief linen and French hand embroidery is the best recipe we know and the Normandy cap the most charming pattern.

Tailor-Made Suits Have Lost Their Simplicity

It is a matter open to conjecture and speculation as to what latent influence has been brought to bear on trotteurs and tailor-mades during the last few months. That they have departed in many instances from the masculine simplicity that has heretofore characterized them is patent to the least observant.

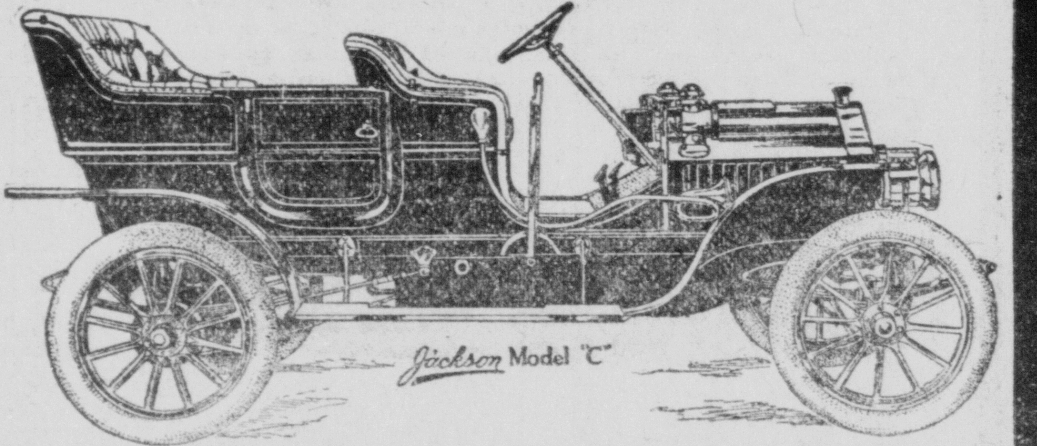

Whether the powers that be among the tailors have grown light-headed or whether the feminine instinct long held in abeyance has at last asserted itself, it is impossible to say. But the fact remains that the much-vaunted simplicity of the tailor-made suit has been successfully rivaled by an entirely new version of the coat suit.

Seams, once sober and sedate now describe the most fantastic curves or break off into acute angles such as surely were never seen on the old-time classical tailor-made suit. Pocket-holes open into nothing but an endless opportunity for braidwork and cording, while the buttonholes that adorn and decorate, but do not button, mock at the practical issues that once characterized the tailored suit.

If this sweeping innovation is carried to its logical conclusion we may expect to see rain coats with elbow sleeves, walking skirts with lace trimmed flounces, and traveling suits with panniers and draperies.—The Delineator for October.

Because we put the cam shaft on top of CYLINDER and do the cam shaft in the crank case have to use push rods to open the valves, and just so sure as long push rods are used they are going to have trouble.

We don't use push rods at all and thus do away with any trouble. We did not have one moment's engine trouble in either the big races of 250 and 300 miles. We won the 300-mile event for the Wheeler-Schebler Trophy and, in fact, had the 250-mile event won when our driver collapsed because of the awful strain in driving that distance over a track that practically shook every other car but ours to pieces.

The Work of the Jackson Car Was Surely a Wonderful Performance in Itself, but More So when the Facts Regarding It are Known

It was a genuine Stock Car from beginning to end, and in fact did not belong to the Jackson Auto Co., it being a private car sold to Mr. C. D. Paxson, of Cleveland, Ohio, over two years ago, which makes its performance all the more wonderful. The car had been driven over 20,000 miles in private use, and yet went right out and won the big race and practically the next largest event without any doping what-ever. It was driven by one of our testers, who had never had any experience and is not a high salaried driver.

Further, the car is ready to go right out and do the same stunts without any repairs whatever, which shows that the car is built right and stays right even if it does cost only $2,000. Cars that sell at $4,000 to $6,000 literally fell to pieces, but not the $2,000 JACKSON.

Again we say we have the Most Wonderful Motor in the world and stand ready to prove it.

For the Hostess

Chat on Topics of Many Kinds, by a Recognized Authority

"Puzzle" Announcement Party.

Quite recently a hostess used puzzle pictures to announce the engagement of the guest of honor. The club to which the young couple belonged were invited and as no one suspected the news that was to be revealed, the affair was entirely successful.

Tables and puzzles were arranged so that four persons worked together, the hostess explained that when the six tables had completed their puzzles a very interesting story would be woven from the pictures; that a prize would be awarded to the one who first guessed the story. The first picture put together showed a boy and girl with a map upon which there were two states, Maine and Ohio; the second puzzle revealed a man and a girl dancing with the words "Yale" and "Vassar."

Then the third picture was a poser, for it was simply a cut of a White Star liner, the fourth puzzle was a Pullman train marked "California Limited;" the fifth was a scene in a park, with a couple sitting under the trees, and the sixth was a bride and groom walking up the aisle over which were the initials of the young couple.

The prize was a large box of confetti with which the pair were duly showered. Congratulations followed and every one was delighted. The hostess had painted some of the pictures, pasted them on thin sheets of wood and a boy friend cut them out on his jig saw. Post cards, advertisements and magazines furnished the others.

A delicious salad of canned asparagus, sprinkled with grated cheese and mayonnaise with a garnish of stuffed olives cut in halves. Cheese straws were passed with it, and lemonade, in which a bottle of ginger ale was added in the proportion of a bottle to every quart of lemonade.

Unique Thimble Party.

We belonged to a thimble club of ten members, and once a month one of us gave an afternoon to which each member asked a guest, making a party of 20. At the affair I wish to describe for your department readers the hostess had five tables with the following stunts to be accomplished: First, to see who could sew on the most buttons in the time allotted; second, to see who could sew on the most lace; third, the best buttonhole in five minutes; fourth, the best patch-work square; fifth, the neatest hem in the square of cheese cloth. We played partners, the two best progressing. We were all given wee baskets with silk bag tops attached and the markers were buttons, hooks and eyes, spools of thread, steel bodkins, etc. There were prizes of needle-books, scissors and spool cases filled.

Farewell Envelope Shower.

To a girl who was going away for a prolonged absence, a friend planned and carried out this acceptable shower. Her guests all entered into the spirit of the occasion and made it a success. Each person was asked to bring something in an envelope, as space must be considered when one is going to Europe. It was wonderful the way the envelope scheme developed; there was an envelope of denim with strap handles for holding magazines, letter paper pad, pencil, etc. Then there was a nest of long envelopes tied together filled with all sorts of interesting clippings, anecdotes, articles of interest along the lines that the voyager was especially to study.

One envelope contained a wee deck of cards for playing solitaire, another held courtplaster; one had snap shots of home scenes and near friends; several large envelopes held hand illuminated mottoes, and, best of all, a rich bachelor uncle took this way of giving his niece some greenbacks. The envelope was labeled "Extras." One practical girl brought a set of envelopes marked "For Emergency;" there were buttons on a card, needles, safety pins, a card of beauty pins, hairpins of all sizes and an invisible hair net. It is impossible to enumerate all that this shower brought forth besides the regular steamer letters.

Marking Silver for a Bride.

An old custom, which is now a new one, is that of marking a bride's silver with the first initial of the bridegroom's first or Christian name, and the bride's two initials, with the initial of the bridegroom's last name, thus: Supposing the man to be John Smith and the bride "Anna Edgar," the flat silver would all be engraved "J." and "A. E. S." Silver marked this way is shown by a lady who will soon celebrate her fortieth anniversary, and she says it was the custom of the largest eastern jeweler's to mark all wedding silver in this way unless specially instructed otherwise. Many brides of to-day seem to prefer their wedding gifts to be marked with the initial which they have every right to expect will be theirs for life. But all bridal linen, both personal and for household use, is marked with the bride's monogram or her initials. Will all prospective brides take this as a bit of personal information?

MADAME MERRI.

The rose-pink, so much in vogue, is a most delightful color, when veiled with net or lace.

The newest dancing frocks for girls are being made of puffed malines over satin slips.

Irish crochet buttons and lace appear as trimming upon some of the crepe-like tissues.

Raffia parasols, edged with tiny balls, are a pretty accompaniment for pongee and linen frocks.

The shirt waist or one-piece morning frock with a collar of itself is coming into its own again.

Old blue linen, with tucks and frills of white mull, is very attractive in any of the present-day models.

There has been a notable increase in the use of printed materials with the advance of the new foulard rage.

The military coat will be prominent in tailored suitings this fall. It will be slightly bloused and belted.

Styles Borrowed From Olden Days

Curious as it may seem, the predominating influences at work among the new styles are those borrowed from the fashions of the eighteen seventies and eighties, says Mrs. Clara E. Simecox in the Delineator for October. I say "curious" because there could hardly be an uglier, more impossible period for the designer to draw on than those awful eighties. You remember the little tight-fitting, narrow-chested basques, the bouffant draperies over the hips, the scant underskirt and the foolish bits of lace and ribbon, of fringe and bead-work, that passed for true elegance in those unenlightened days.

Yet with all their flagrant disregard of the laws of simplicity and restraint and beauty they have furnished us with the basis for some really lovely things. The fishwife skirt and the louse tunic, which were truly terrible when hips were huge and waists were wasplike are positively charming in combination with the present silhouette. The overskirt is caught up across the front and allowed to trail downward toward the back quite as it used to do thirty years ago. The underskirt is generally plaited, but instead of the formidable array of organ-pipe plaits that used to delight the eye of our mothers and grandmothers and grandmothers we content ourselves with a simple kilted skirt that falls in straight, flat lines around the feet.

Women Teachers Looking to the West

The women school teachers throughout the country are looking longingly toward Colorado, Wyoming and Utah since the equal suffragists brought out the fact that in these States women teachers receive the same salaries as the men. And the question invariably suggest itself is why everywhere else do women teachers not receive the same pay for the same work that men do? It should not be to the credit of the women suffragists to obtain this situation but should be the work of honest men and women, too, that makes women willing or at least silent in acceptance is a disgrace to our country. The person, not the woman, who does equally good work with another should receive the same recompense. That is a foregone conclusion. But as long as men are content that injustice be done a fellow creature just so long will the condition endure. And it will not be women suffragists that bring about the remedy but only that the great mass of men and women will finally see and do the right.

Leather Belts in Paris

Paris loves the pulled-in waist line. While she has held bravely and long to the high-waisted skirt on many of her gowns, and, indeed, with an ardor not known in America, she has grasped the opportunity with the very first gown that admitted of it, to put on a leather belt, and a close one at that.

She has worn this belt during the summer with some of the foulard and lingerie gowns and with the best of her linen morning frocks. She has strained a point to wear it with dresses that were scarcely built for it.

In this particular fashion period through which we are passing, the belt is frequently impossible with the half-fitted princess of the moyen age, except it be the loose leather belt of the silken girdle run through slots opened beside the princess panels. The pulling in of a closely fitted princess is about as awkward as anything that could well be imagined, but the Parisian woman, who always finds her opportunity, has worn a shaped leather belt successfully with a model like the white pique shown in the picture. The cut of this dress, although including the long hip and suggesting the wateau plait from yoke to belt, is such that it admits of a decided waist line. This shaped belt of shiny leather is made of three pieces, which fit it about the figure very snugly.

The straight patent leather worn with the striped linen morning frock, although made of one piece, is also an outlined belt and fastened with a square leather covered buckle.

Now, the French woman oversteps the mark when she wears her beloved shiny belt with the fitted foulard gown of princess cut, but to her the girdle seems an irresistible accessory. Parisians always feel privileged to perform remarkable feats in fashion making, but fortunately the sensible American is given to adaptations. She will, in all probability, wear the extreme patent leather, but instinctively with gowns made for it; with models having a blouse and skirt and a distinct waist line. The leather belt is at its best worn with a turnover collar and a four-in-hand or with a Puritan collar and Windsor tie.

Must Keep Weeds Down Along the Railroads

The Indiana railroad commission is sending notices to all the railroads of the State that they must comply with the law in regard to cutting weeds along their right-of-way, equipping their engines with headlights, grab irons, automatic bells, ash pans and footboards. The commission warns the railroads that it will enforce these laws. Concerning weeds and objects along the right-of-way that obstruct a view of approaching trains at grade crossings the commissioners says:

"Numerous highway crossing accidents have recently been reported to the commission, caused, in part, by the obstruction of view along the railroad by trees, bushes and weeds. Such conditions now exist at many road crossings throughout the State. They materially enhance the peril at these danger points. In some instances the obstructions grow upon the company's right-of-way; in others they stand upon the highway or on adjoining private premises.

"The commissioners hereby recommend that the railroads, both steam and interurban, give specific instructions to their roadmasters, section foremen and other employees charged with this class of work to cut and keep cut all such obstructions where the same are located upon the right-of-way; and to call personally upon neighboring land owners, and secure their active co-operation in trimming or removing trees and cutting underbrush and weeds growing on such owners' lands, or along the highway adjacent thereto; and that a supply of these circulars be furnished to roadmasters and section foremen by their respective companies, as their warrant for insisting upon the work being done by said property owners."

Severe penalties are provided for failure to comply with the laws compelling the roads to property equip their engines and the commission gives warning that the penalties will be exacted. The penalties for failure to provide ash pans, for example, is a fine of from $200 to $400 in each case. All of the roads are given until Jan. 1, 1910, to comply with the law. Frequent complaints have been made to the commission that the law has not been complied with.

Buy Your Diamonds Now

When the young men of Rush county go to a jeweler to buy the inevitable engagement ring, he is prepared to pay a good price for it, as nothing short of a diamond is considered worthy. If it is delayed until Christmas he will find that he will have to pay a much higher price than now, as the local jewelers have received word from all diamond merchants that the price of this precious stone will be advanced by Christmas to the extent of ten per cent. So a diamond which now is worth $200, by Christmas will be sold for $225 or $230.

This should be a hint with the force of a mule kick to the young men who are bashful or have not fully made up their mind, that they can save money for furniture by speaking the words they have rehearsed so many times in the solitude of your room and buying the ring at once.

$50,000 Spent Before We Cut a Pattern

In Paris, the famous Mme. Savarie, spends eight months each year studying style and style tendencies.

Four times a year she brings over the costly, imported models which she has bought, which illustrate the newest and best that is known abroad.

Here in Cleveland, our eight Wooltex master designers, with Mme. Savarie's suggestions and models before them, create the new Wooltex styles—distinctive American styles.

The Wooltex style organization costs annually $50,000. $50,000 before we even cut a pattern, so that Wooltex, in style, may lead

Coats · Suits · Skirts · Dresses

For Well Dressed Women

But the extra value in Wooltex garments does not stop with style. It only begins there.

In Wooltex garments we use only extra quality materials—materials selected for the pureness of their all-wool texture, for their silky softness, and for their harmonious colors.

These extra quality materials are cut and fashioned by an organization of trained tailors which it has taken twenty-five years to perfect.

Every Wooltex garment is draped on live models to insure flowing lines and graceful fit.

The Wooltex garment which you buy, whether it be a coat, suit, skirt or dress, represents the utmost that is known in style.

No fads or freaks, but the best Parisian ideas, modified and adapted to meet the requirements of American good taste.

Yet through perfect organization, Wooltex garments cost you no more than garments which lack Wooltex style, Wooltex quality and Wooltex individuality.

Every Wooltex garment, coat, suit, skirt or dress, is guaranteed for two full seasons of satisfactory wear.

THE BANG IS HERE AGAIN

It Will Be Worn by the Majority of Women Next Winter.

Although much protest was made last winter about the re-appearance of the "bang" across the forehead, it seems to be rather firmly entrenched now.

The majority of women will wear it this winter. In large measure it will be becoming. It will compel women to lift from their foreheads that low-hanging mass of hair, now the fashion, and substitute it with a tiny, wavy fringe.

It is absurd to cut the hair to make this bang. One can buy it by the piece in any hair shop and attach it under one's own hair by an invisible hairpin.

One should be extra careful not to get it thick or straight. The poodle bang, once so fashionable in the eighties of the nineteenth century, also promises to return. It has already done so in Paris, but there it, like the wavy fringe, only accompanies the flattened pompadour.

Both of these have been introduced to give softness to a forehead from which the hair has been lifted, and also to give a showing of hair under the hat.

They should never be worn with the hair severely parted in front.

White Net Frock.

A standard white dress, and the most advisable if you are making it right now, is the point d'esprit or fine wash net, for the very obvious reason that the whole season is no longer before you, and you, therefore, will not want to make a dress for summer only. The point d'esprit dress is a most useful as well as a beautiful little dancing frock. If it be made in one of the pretty fluffy ways that these sheer dresses naturally call for, the yoke and lower sleeves may later be removed and a bit of lace added as a finish. With the addition of little wreaths of artificial pink roses or small bunches of red rambler roses, the frock will be ideal for winter evenings.

First Cheap Gloves Made in a Kitchen

The manufacture of canton gloves originated a few years ago in the back room of a country store where a small merchant conceived the idea of making a glove that would be serviceable and at the same time cheap, something that would retail for a dime. The first gloves were made out of a good grade of burlap. This merchant after getting a pattern perfected cut them out with a pair of sheers and his wife sewed them at odd times. He soon had quite a demand for them, so much so in fact that they had to get another machine and hire help to sew them. From the sheers used for cutting developed the hand dies, and canton flannel for stock instead of burlap.

After the introduction of canton developed the glove at once jumped into the popular favor and now factories employing all the way from two or three women and girls to one hundred and even two hundred are employed in making canton gloves. The cloth is bought in case lots containing about 12 hundred yards to the case, and is in about half a dozen different weights from 6 ounces to 12 and 14 ounces to the yard. The cutting is done on a power press cutting from one to two dozen pair at a time. The girls operating machines, sew from 6 to 14 dozen pair a day, making from 50c to $1.25. The gloves are then turned, formed and inspected, then bailed, 12 pairs in a bail, which is the way the merchant receives them.

They retail all the way from a dime to 30 cents a pair depending on the weight of cloth and what kind of a wrist they have on them.

They are worn by the miner, the teamster, the railroad man and the farmer—in fact by anyone that has use for a glove if only for a few minutes or a day's hard service when they can be discarded. A new pair can be bought in the morning and still be cheaper and more satisfactory than a leather glove costing ten times as much. They are also worn by women who do sweeping or work in flowers or out door work. In fact the demand for woman's canton gloves in some places exceeds that of men's. Such has been the development of one industry that started in a small way only a few years ago.

Germany produces fourteen million bottles of champagne a year. She imports 1,500,000 from France.

Good Soap Not Harmful.

The notion that soap makes the complexion oily if there is a tendency in that direction is absurd if the right kind is found. Such skin, of course, will take more alkali than one which is dry, and in any event the natural excessive oils, loaded as they soon are with impurities from the air, must be washed off carefully. After that if there are enlarged pores or an inclination to appear greasy, tonicking sprays may be used. For them one should have an atomizer that may be bought at any toilet department or druggist's.

Refreshing Face Wash.

Astringent and refreshing is a combination of one part of peroxide of hydrogen and nine parts of water. Mix well and after washing and drying the face spray over, taking care that none gets in the eyes or on the hair. A combination of one part each of dilute acetic acid and eau de cologne with ten parts of water makes an excellent tonic that is eventually bleaching as well as astringent. Either one of these may be sprayed over the entire body after a bath.

The Filmy Frock.

The more filmy the material in the frock the heavier and more bold in design is the embroidery which must ornament it. The flowers that appear on some of the gauzy, frail evening gowns have to be worked separately and then applied to the background. They show up in deep relief.

NEW IDEA FOR LAUNDRY BAG

Chief Recommendation is That It Does Away with Annoying Drawing String.

For a long time the familiar variety of laundry bag, done in two colors, embroidered and held together at the neck by a string, has been an item among the holiday gifts. But in spite of its prettiness the annoying draw string rendered it impractical.

Here is a laundry bag that solves the difficulty. It has not only the capacity for holding many articles of clothing, but the easiest possible way of receiving them. Simply lift one ring from the hook by which it is suspended and the bag is opened wide. It is equally ready to take in or dump out its contents.

The necessary materials are one and one-fourth yards of art ticking or cretonne, two crocheted rings, one inch in diameter or larger, one and one-half yards of featherbone and one roll of white bias binding one and one-half inch wide. Cut a four-inch strip from the entire length of the material. Now cut two pieces 23 inches long and 25 inches wide. Round the corners on the lower edges. Divide the featherbone in halves and stitch it on the under side of each piece ten inches from the top, as represented by dotted lines in the illustration. From the ends of the featherbone shape to a point in the middle of the top. Care must be taken to match the pattern when the large pocket is stitched on the outside. Join the two pieces together by stitching each to the four-inch strip of cloth, with the seams on the outside. Bind first the seams and last the upper edges, sew the rings to the points at the top.

A bag expressly for tablecloths and napkins may be made in the same way from white linen or any other suitable material, and a large embroidered or outlined initial or monogram takes the place of the pocket.

WIDER RIBBONS BEING WORN

This Means Increased Expense, and Their Care Has Become a Matter of Moment.

Laundrerable or lingerie ribbons are markedly wider than were those formerly in general use. The majority of the threadings for the tops of corset covers, chemises and combination garments are an inch wide, while those used on petticoat flounces, night robes and negligees measure fully two inches across. This fashion so materially increases the expense of keeping up the lingerie that the care of the reserve supply of delicately tinted ribbons is of importance. As it is more economical to purchase these ribbons by the bolt, they should be kept rolled up in their original paper ribbons, which should be extended as nearly as possible to the outer end of the roll. Long eyed bodkins are specially provided for running these wide ribbons through lingerie headings, but for the traveler who is prone to mislay her toilet utensils these are tagged ribbons which come in two yard lengths.

While all the staple pink, blue, green and yellow tints are still popular, ultra fashionable girls are using old rose, vine, grape, dahlia, fuchsia, emerald, aeroplane and the various orchid shades in lingerie ribbons.

Rushville Will!

Combinations All the Rage

It is evident from what is being worn at Ostend that the high waistline and narrow skirts have been retained by many houses, while others rush madly toward deep-pointed girdles and full draperies, says Mrs. Clara E. Simcox in the Delineator for October. Still others seem intent on retaining their hold on last year's fashion, while they clutch frantically at the newer styles of the present season.

In this later class are several dressmakers who are attempting to combine the high raised waistline with the newer, fuller bodices and skirts, or, still worse, to use the long-pointed waistline of the eighteenth century without the compensating fulness of the panniers and fichus. Nothing uglier could be imagined than the combination of the long, narrow waist and scant sheath skirt.

In fact, the change definition of the waistline is one of the most striking features of the new styles. Some call it the Isabelle or Bavarian point, while others trace it back to the Greuze portraits a la vierge and the pointed corsages of Vigee Le Brun. It is another phase of the Watteau and Pompadour designs that were introduced last Spring and which have already met with greater success than might have been anticipated when they first made their appearance.

Russia has 890 convents, with a total of 65,240 inmates. Of these, 47,429 are nuns, 17,811 monks.

RUSSIAN COAT IN VELVET

Tolstoy's caftan, or Russian smock, the garment of the Russian peasant, has been borrowed as a smart coat model this season. The caftan falls quite straight from the shoulder to hem and is not fitted to the figure at all. The cord about the waist, with which the peasants gird in the caftan, is replaced on the handsome coats by a belt or girdle of embroidered trimming. This Russian coat of claret velvet is richly embroidered with fine black silk braid, the embroidery forming a band trimming at the edge and large motifs over the shoulder and at the bottom.

Will Beadwork Return.

The English are now using the small handloom to copy the Indian beadwork which had an unusual run in America some years ago. They have found that several rows of the narrow beaded neck chain may be sewn together to form the wider belt. The same little wooden loom has been used in Scandinavia not only lately but for centuries for wool weaving. A narrow galon is woven by the peasants for dress trimming, and a shuttle carries the wool back and forth across the warp threads just as our long needles carried the beads. The present popularity of the beaded reticule would suggest a possible return of this Indian work.

To Mark Poison Bottles.

All too frequently is a bottle of poison mistaken for something not deadly. One way to help avoid this danger is to put a brass-headed tack in the cork of every bottle containing poison; impress this fact on the family. One can know immediately whether the bottle holds poison simply by the sense of touch. This knowledge is especially valuable when you are looking for a bottle at night.

What is regarded as the most ancient coin in the world is one that was discovered a few years ago by a German archaeologist during his explorations in north Syria. It is a coin of pure silver, bearing a perfect Aramean inscription of Panammu Bar Rerub, king of Schamol, who reigned 800 years B. C.

MERCHANTS ARE WELL SUPPLIED

the two-cent fare law, even if you only buy a dollar's worth of goods.

Certainly you will say that you have never been treated any better than you were here, after you have done your shopping in this city. There was a time when a few Rushville people went all the way to Indianapolis to buy goods, but most of them have found that in addition to the car fare, they have to pay about fifty per cent. higher for their goods, and get no better quality and less satisfaction, so they have quit it and now buy of Rushville merchants.

One thing which appeals greatly to farmers who trade in this city, is the great advantages here for taking care of vehicles. The hitching rack, in care of a competent custodian, is convenient for shoppers. If the farmer does not care to leave his horse standing out, there is ample provision for them at convenient places.

Altogether, there is no place quite as nice as Rushville. Revising George Ade's opinion that Indiana is a great place to come from, it might be well said of Rushville that it is a great place to come to. Try it once, if you don't have the good fortune to live here. If you do live here, take a look at the stock of goods Rushville merchants have and see if it isn't the best they have ever carried in years.

An ingenious machine recently patented by an Iowan takes a piece of wire, cuts it the right length, bends it and fastens it around hose to hold a coupling.

DAINTY BLUE LINEN FROCK

Beautiful Little Gown That Anyone Can Copy from the Description.

Just a few lines to tell the embroiderers about a beautiful little linen frock that any one of them may copy from the description.

The material for it was a soft smoky blue, between light and dark—one of those smooth French linens that come in such exquisite tints and tones.

The whole white dress was made of the same linen, although it did not appear so at first glance, because the bodice part of it had been embroidered.

After the sleeves were fitted, they evidently were ripped out, pieced about two inches apart with large eyelet holes and embroidered. The bodice was fitted, sewed, finished round the neck line, and then it also was embroidered with eyelet holes.

The soft embroidery cotton used for the work was an exact match for the blue linen. Both the belt and the shaped facings round the neck and wrists were plaid linen to match the skirt, which was a long-hip model, well fitted and with a slightly high waist line. It buttoned with five linen-covered buttons to the left of the front gore. The skirt was stitched fast to this perfectly plain, but perfectly fitted, bodice, opening down the left side and buttoned with smaller buttons made in the same way. The entire bodice and sleeves were of the blue linen to a point within two inches of the collar and two inches of the hand. The guimpe worn with this dress and showing at the neck and wrists was white wash net of an exquisitely fine quality, to match a plaited frill of 4½-inch footing down the side opening of the bodice.

Frank Wootan, England's best jockey, who won sixty-six races in three months early this year on the English turf, is an Australian boy only fifteen years old. He won his first race when less than ten years old. His income is now as much as a cabinet minister's.
